OPPOSES THE AMENDMENT

Child Labor Measure Probably Not to Pass in New York Tho Major Parties for It.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 2.—With sentiment in New York state in opposition to the federal child labor amendment, growing stronger daily, it seems extremely doubtful if the empire state will ratify the amendment even tho the major political parties declared for such action in their platforms.

Having declared for ratification, both parties immediately after the legislature convened this year, came out in favor of a referendum on the question. Governor Smith, for the democrats, wants a referendum before the present session ends. The republican leaders, who control the legislature will not grant this request, but want a referendum next November. So it is certain that no action will be taken before next year, if then.

Sentiment against the amendment also is strong in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, all industrial states.

In Maryland there is strong feeling for states rights. The legislature of that state however, will not [illegible] until next year, there being no meeting of the lawmakers until then.

In Pennsylvania there is noticed a desire to hold up action by the legislature until it is known definitely whether the amendment will be defeated. The resolution introduced early in the session and has since been reposing in the judiciary general committee.

Sentiment in Delaware is pronounced against the measure and indications point to its certain defeat when it is brought before the legislature.

FIRE WARDEN DISMISSED

Omaha Employe Ordered Dropped by City Council and His Office Abolished.

OMAHA, Feb. 2.—John T. Dunn, city fire warden, was ordered dismissed by city council today and the office of fire warden abolished. Dunn, former city detective, discharged from the police department by the city council, was recently appointed fire warden by Commissioner Dan Butler. Last week Dunn made a report that fire escapes on several hospitals were in bad repair and announced that he was going to make a report on apartment house fire escapes soon.

His discharge is another chapter in the fight between Commissioner Butler and other members of the city council.

The council instructed Butler not to reappoint Dunn in any capacity and ordered the city comptroller to honor no pay roll checks for Dunn in the future no matter for what work drawn.

TO BE NO NIGHT SESSION

Representatives Will Not Meet Monday Evening—Many Bills Fail to Get Under Wire.

The session to have been held by the house of representatives Monday night failed to materialize and at 3 p. m on motion by Yochum, the house adjourned until 10 a. m. Tuesday, thus finally and permanently blasting the hopes o fthose who had bills in their hip-pockets which they still hoped to introduce. Monday was to have been the last day for introducing bills and with a night session a number of members planned to enter a few more bills.

The motion to adjourn, made by Yochum, was put over so swiftly that a number of members did not have time to realize what it was all about. Several were on their feet and crowding forward to introduce bills when the curtain dropped. A number who were disappointed expressed it as their opinions that something had been put over on them.

Spring Schedule Meeting Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(United Press)—In the same room of the same hotel where the league was formed fifty years ago the National league will start its jubilee celebration today with the annual spring schedule meeting.

No business of importance is on the program. There may be some discussion of the Dolan-O'Connell scandal, but if anything is made public, it will be only another pledge of support for Commissioner Landis.

There was the usual talk before the meeting of trades and deals. The Cincinnati Reds were said to be looking for a spot to drop Jimmy Caveney and Louis Fonseca, who were recently waived on both leagues and it was reported that a deal might be made with the New Yok Yankies.

MAGNUS JOHNSON FILES A CONTEST

Charges $5,000 in Campaign Contributions for Schall Extorted From Moonshiners and Bootleggers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The chief point in Senator Magnus Johnson's contest is a charge that $5,000 in campaign contributions was extorted from moonshiners and bootleggers of the Minnesota election on a promise that the influence of the federal courts would be used for their interests if they contributed to the Thomas D. Schall campaign. Schall won the election.

Citing this charge the petition states that Schall established a hotel quarters where well known bootleggers and moonshiners frequently stopped.

"The managers of Schall's campaign stated to each of said violators charged with offenses against the liquor laws that if they would contribute money to the Schall campaign he would use his influence with the government officers and the courts to obtain their release," the petition states.

Johnson also charges in his petition that:

1—Schall spent large sums of money "in excess of the amount allowed by law," and that these sums were used "unlawfully in enlisting aid and support of numerous persons in the publication of false and defamatory publication," against Johnson

2—Schall at Thief River Falls, Minn., October 9, violated the state statute providing that any political candidate who willingly makes a false statement about his opponent, is guilty of a misdemeanor

3—At an expense about his opponent, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

4—At an expense of more than $5,000, Schall started a pretended "newspaper" called the Minnesota Harpoon, which circulated "false charges and wicked insinuations," against Johnson

"If the outcome of my contest should be that the seat be merely declared vacant, I have confidence that the state Minnesota, either thru appointment by the governor or election by the people will fill that vacancy with a man who possesses character and a decent regard for the laws governing the conduct of campaigns and election," Johnson said in his statement.

When informed of Johnson's charges Schall said:

"They are all a pack of absolute lies."

TO SURVEY LINCOLN BOYS

Scout Council to Find Out Where Troops Needed and Line up Organization Work.

Surveying the boys of Lincoln, to find out where they are and how they are organized, is to be a project of the scout council, M. C. Lefler reported Monday noon at the executive meeting. Every boy from eleven to eighteen years old will be listed, so that next year, when the youngest are ready for scouting, the council will know where to form troops. Special attention will be paid to orphans and the sons of traveling men, so that they will not be overlooked. The council hopes to have troops where they are most accessible, and avoid drawing from too large a territory for each troop.

February is to be a busy month for scouts, other reports indicated The annual father and son banquet is to be set for February 19, at the Scottish Rite cathedral. and emphasis was laid on getting a brief and snappy speaker who will not put the boys to sleep after they have eaten. The fifteenth anniversary of scouting will be celebrated the week beginning February 12, with home day, recruiting day, church day, and initiation of Governor McMullen before the Lincoln statue on the capitol grounds.

About thirty men attended Monday's meeting, the first in the administration of Dr J. E. M. Thomson, president of the council

URGE FARM LEGISLATURE

PRESSURE ON HOUSE AND SENATE LEADERS.

Coolidge Believes Action Should Be Started to Put Agriculture Recommendations Into Effect.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Administration leaders in senate and house were urged by the white house today to make places on their programs for legislaition putting into effect the recommendations of the president's agriculture commission.

With the final report of the commission submitted and only twenty-six days of the session remaining, the president believes action can and should be started without delay.

Speed is essential for two reasons: First, that the machinery for crop marketing recommended by the commission, may be in operation to benefit the farmers during the coming summer; and second, that the farmer relief question be disposed of so that tax legislation may be considered exclusively at the special session which the administration very probably will summon next fall.

Leaders will "crack the whip" in response to Mr. Coolidge's summons and evidence of action is given in the calling of the agriculture committees of both houses to consider bills embodying the commission's program. Despite the white house contention however, that the recommendations are so simple as to be readily understood without lengthy discussion there is no unanimity among farm bloc members on the subject and this may prevent results.

The final report of the agriculture commission recommended the present duplication among federal agencies dealing with agricultural matters be eliminated and that the functions of service and regulation, now existing frequently in one agency be separated.

Many federal agencies originally created to help farmers have strayed so far afield as to be principally engaged in enforcing various regulations with the result the helpful duties are entirely lost sight of, the report said.

The department of agriculture came forward today with a warning to farmers against increasing their acreage of wheat and cotton this year. Present high prices may not continue thru next winter, the department said, and big crops planted in the expectation of reaping large profits at present prices may further depress the situation.

ROAD SEEKS REVERSAL

Union Pacific Says Thirty Thousand Too Much to Pay to Injured Fireman.

A brief of many pages was filed in supreme court Monday by the attorneys for the Union Pacific in an effort to convince that court that it should reverse and demand the case where Herbert Boyle, a fireman, received a judgment for $50,000, cut later by the trial court to $30,000. Boyle yanked a water spout down at Schuyler one night when filling the tank of his engine. It was loose and let him fall from the platform underneath the wheels of a passing freight train. He lost one leg and was frightfully maimed. He contended that the company officials knew of the defective condition of the spout, while he was unable to see it because of the insufficient light.

It is the contention of the company that under the federal employers' liability bill, which covers cases of this kind, the question of negligence is one to be proved by the party making it, wherein the district court erred. It says that the employe also assumes the risk of poor lights and other dangers incident to railroading. It also contends that the testimony does not support a judgment that is apparently the result of passion and prejudice.

PINTO IDEAS IN NEW BILL

Newspaper Man Gets Legislator to Father Divorce for Childlessness.

The story was going the rounds in legislative circles Monday morning that the correspondent for an Omaha newspaper had secured the consent of one of the members from that city to introduce a bill providing for the divorce of childless couples after two years of married life

At Omaha Monday Dr Pinto who as health commissioner of the city, propounded such a theory some weeks ago, said his ideas had been embodied in a bill that would be filed Monday

If physical examination disloses both parties to a marriage are capable of bringing children into the world after two years of marriage they would be divorced if childless.

SAYS IMMORALITY UNTRUE

President Birge of Wisconsin Resents Charges of Judge Stolen.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 2.—President F. A. Birge, of the University of Wisconsin, today vigorously denied charges of immorality at the university, made by Judge Ole Stolen.

President Birge declared statistics show that Judge Stolen's claim that 60 per cent of the youth of Madison are venerally diseased is "not only false but absurd."

Of the 28,000 male students examined at the university clinic in the past fifteen years, less than three-tenths of 1 per cent have been infected, President Birge said.

"Th records of the years since the war do not differ from those of the early time," the president said.

"The records of the clinic and those of the state board of health show that this situation continues during the residence of the students in Madison.

"The nature of the other statements of Judge Stolen is such that they cannot be given a similar test by statistics. But every one who knows the university, knows also they are grossly exaggerated in the same way. They are equally untrue to the life of the young people of Madison and of the university. They are equally a slander on the character of hte thousands of clean and wholesome young men and women who throng our campus."

Lotus wanted to do deep drama, but motion picture directors saw only her legs, so she poured acid over them in the hope of disfiguring them for life.

"Ever since I came here it's been my legs—all the time," she cried. "I won a beauty contest in Australia for my face but no one noticed it in Hollywood. Directors can't see higher than my knees. They always want to slip me into a bathing suit and photograph my legs."

CONSTRUCTION IS ALTERED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—The fourth amendment to the constitution, guaranteeing citizens against unreasonable searches and seizures, received new construction in two decisions handed down by the United States supreme court today

Prohibition officials won a victory before the court when it affirmed without opinion a decision of a lower court sentencing a man to a $250 fine for illegal possession of liquor discovered when his automobile was stopped and searched with out a warrant

Appeal of the First National bank of Mobile Ala. from a federal court order to open its books to an internal revenue collector who wished to determine the tax liabilities of two of its depositors was denied by the court, which vetoed the contention of the bank than inasmuch as the collector did not specify which papers were desired, it was in violation of the fourth amendment.

In the prohibition case, G. L. Center, Greenville, S. C., appealed from the fine claiming that seizure of his liquor by city officers on a highway outside of town was a violation of the amendment.

The government claimed the arrest was made under the state law by state officers and hence the alleged constitutional immunity did not apply in the case, altho Center was later prosecuted on the same evidence in federal court. The supreme court upheld the government's case

OBLIGATIONS TO HARVARD

Associations and Duties Cause Him to Refuse.

Member of Regents' Presidential Committee at Madison Hurries East to Consult Law Dean.

Dean Pound's decision was revealed in a telegram from John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, who went to Cambridge, Mass., Saturday in a final attempt to persuade the dean to accept the offer of the university regents.

The telegram indicated that the dean's obligations to the law school and his associations at Harvard led him to decline, altho he appreciated the opportunities at Wisconsin.

Superintendent Callahan, who is a member of the regents presidential committee, hurried east again when it became known that Dean Pound was considering a negative reply.

CLAIMS THE PLACE OF SCIENCE LEADER

London Woman Establishes New Church, Which She Says Is Successor to Mrs. Eddy's.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—An English woman has challenged the old order in the Christian Science church and is claiming the place formerly held by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy.

Mrs. Annie C. Bill of London, backed by John V. Dittemore, formerly a director of the mother church in Boston, which was the storm center of five years' litigation in New England, has established a new church. It is known as "the Christian Science Parent Church of the New Generation" and has branches in eighteen American cities and London.

Mrs. Bill asserts that the entire Christian Science church organization ceased to function when Mrs. Eddy died December 3, 1910, and was replaced by a "great discovery of the universal design of life, the natural seven fold system, the seven stages required for the logical individual discovery and collective application of each basic fact of life." She and her associates insist the board of directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Boston, the governing body set up by Mrs. Eddy, is misapplying the lines set down in the "manual."

Leaders of the mother church describe the new movement as rebellion against the church as established by Mrs. Eddy. Scientists generally are reticent to discuss the movement.

LIVES AFTER LONG SHOCK

KENTUCKIAN IS IMPRISONED BY BOULDER FALLING.

With Feet Crushed and Pinioned He Cannot Be Moved Until the Rock Is Drilled Away.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 2.—With water rising about the body of Floyd Collins, thirty-five, entombed in Sand Cave near here since Friday morning, chances of saving his life are almost hopeless.

Hopes of Collins that he may eventually be saved were fed afresh however, when informed an air drill had been assembled in Louisville.

The special train carrying the drill arrived in Cave City shortly after 11 a. m. and is being rushed across the rugged country roads to the cave.

A reward of $500 will be paid to any competent surgeon who will chloroform Collins in his narrow prison inside the cave, amputate his leg that is being held by a huge boulder and bring him out. The offer was made today by Homer Collins, brother of the explorer.

Working as rapidly as he can, the one man able to reach Floyd Collins in his living tomb 300 feet under ground, can barely keep the falling gravel from suffocating Collins.

The shell rock pours in a continuous stream upon Collins, who lies on his face in a narrow crevice, his feet crushed under a heavy boulder.

Machinery being rushed to tunnel about Collins whose body now entirely blocks the passageway was reported to be at Sonora, Ky., forty-five miles away.

The imprisoned man was exploring a long winding cavern near Mammoth cave in hope of discovering a new passage way into the caverns. Three hundred feet under the earth, his foot loosened earth and the fall followed. He lay for 20 hours face down in the icy mud before friends, alarmed at his non-appearance, entered the passageway and found him.

The crevice is so narrow only one man can work at the rock which holds Collins and he must sit on Collins' back. He works as rapidly as possible. When he tires another takes his place.

Collins is weakening and it is not believed he can survive the day.

He pleads that his leg be cut off. "Anything, anything, just get me out of here," he begs.

Most of the time he retains his coolheadedness and directs the rescuers.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb 2—(12:30 p. m.)—While Lee Collins was appealing over the telephone to Gov. W. J. Fields for aid in rescuing his son Floyd, imprisoned 300 feet underground since Friday morning, a rescue crew from Louisville arrived.

Machinery brought 100 miles by train was loaded on heavy trucks and rushed over the rough mountain roads to the pit where Collins is fighting for his life.

Upon his repeated appeal his father has offered a reward of $5 to the surgeon who will amputate his foot.

Before this can be accomplished will be necessary for the rescue crew to cut away the walls of the passageway surrounding him.

A SHORTAGE FOR CONDIT

NEW STATE SHERIFF FINDS THAT FUNDS LOW.

Names Two Probable Deputies and Pays High Compliment to Carroll, Who Stepped Out Sunday.

State Sheriff Condit, now in active charge of the state's law enforcement bureau, said Monday that he must go slow in spending money and that activities of the department may be more or less curtailed until April 1, end of the third quarter of the fiscal year. He expects to name but two deputies at this time. There will be enough in the strong box to permit some work by specials in addition to the amount required for salaries and expenses of the two deputies and the office force.

The state sheriff expects to retain Otto Dudsches as one of his deputies. Mr. Dudschse gave satisfactory service under the former administration. The second deputy probably will be Frank Weygint of Columbus. Mr. Weygint has served two years on the Columbus police force and has held the position of chief of police at Platte Center.

Miss Christine A. Jones, secretary to State Sheriff Carroll, is serving in like capacity under Mr. Condit who took over keys, records and possession Sunday evening. The new law enforcement head said of his predecessor:

"Mr. Carroll turned everything over to me Sunday night. He has handled the office since the first of the year in the same efficient manner that he handled it before. He has always been efficient and conscientious. If I can do as well as he has done, I will be satisfied."

Mr. Condit was in conference Monay with members of the legislative committee of the State Sheriffs association of which he is president. He is also of the committee. Others of the group are Sheriff Hensel of Lancaster, Sheriff Endres of Douglas, Sheriff Palmer of Hall and Sheriff Davis of Nemaha.

"We are discussing proposed amendments to the liquor laws and more severe penalties for violations," said the law enforcement head.

CLAIMS PARTNER TURNED A RIVAL

Trial of Damage Suit in Which Invasion of Territory Is Charged, Begine Before Judge Wheeler.

Olga G. Pierce's $20,250.00 damage action against Harry A. Koch and E. W. Devereux, of the Harry A. Koch Co., of Omaha for al eged infringment of territory rights in the sale of insurance, began trial before District Judge Wheeler Monday morning.

Mrs. Pierce alleges that prior to March 1, 1922 she held a contract as sub-agent to The Harry Koch Co., of Omaha, for the solicitation of insurance business in the city of Lincoln and was earning large commissions annually and that on March 1, 1922 she entered into a partnership agreement with the Harry A. Koch Co., and changed the name of her agency from the O. G. Pierce Agency to the Harry A. Koch Co., Lincoln Branch and that the first year the commissions amounted to over $2,000.

She alleges that in October and November 1923 the defendants conspired together to get hold of her business and by using her records and lists of clients and expirations, gained in the partnership which had terminated, they approached her customers and secured a large amount of her business. The defendants in answer generally deny all of Mrs. Pierce's allegations.

These government statistics show that despite efforts to deem talk of famine, 475 hamlets are affected.

There is complete lack of fuel and acute distress in twenty-seven hamlets in county Kerry, twenty-three in Clare, seventy-two in Leitrim, fourteen in Galway, six-teen in Canavn, and twelve in Cork.

TELEPHONE HEAD

Walter S. Gifford, just turned forty, recently was elected president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, the two-billion-dollar concern which ranks first among the world's public utility enterprises. He has been connected with the Bell Telephone system during virtually all of his business career and has served it actively except for a period of two years during the war when he was lent to the government to organize the council of national defense, being its director until after the armistice. Gifford was born in Salem, Mass., in 1885 and was graduated from Harvard in 1905.

PLAN DRAFT FOR JUDGES

LEGISLATORS WOULD HAVE GOVERNOR APPOINT THREE.

Supreme Court Is to Assign Them to Assist It in Deciding Cases or to Fill in in Other Courts.

Representatives Jones and Keck presented a bill Monday that provides a floating squadron of district judges. The bill authorized the governor to appoint three district judges out of a list of six submitted by this supreme court, who shall sit with the supreme court for the next four years and help it clean up its docket or be subject to assignment by that court for work in any of the judicial districts.

Mr. Axtell droped in a bill that empowers all cities of 1,000 or more to go into the retail gas, coal, oil and ice business, but mustn't sell to outsiders or charge more than cost of commodities and of handling.

Lee of Adams has two bills. One of them would give the cities and villages 15 per cent of the automobile license fees paid into the county treasury by their inhabitants. The other provides for petitions to fill vacancies on non-political ballot.

Mr. Wingett wants to sentence chicken thieves to as long as seven years in prison. Mr. Johnson of Phelps has a scheme to have the capitol commission pay for delivery to state institutions salvaged materials from the old state house that may be desired for buildings.

Republican members of the revenue and taxation committee filed bills Monday, without giving totals, covering salaries, wages and maintenance for all departments of the state, including the supreme court which has a separate budget. They embody the governor's ideas as expressed in his message.

ORVIL PHIPPS IS FINED

Leading Performer in Altercation Over Bottle Friday Pays $10 and Costs.

Orvil Phipps, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty to the charge. Phipps was sent to jail Friday night following a fight in which he floored Harry Kempes at 1440 P street, and continued to kick Kempes in the head until there was fear of injury to his skull. Phipps told police that he had concealed one pint of liquor behind the house, which disappeared, and he blamed Kempes for taking it, as he was the only one who knew the hiding place. Phipps paid his fine and was released.

Glen Livingston was the first to be hit by Phipps, and John Carlson also received a blow but they succeeded in eluding him. Kempes thereafter bore the brunt of the battle until he was tumbled down the stairs, according to the story told to police.

H. W. Peyton, charged with assault on H. C. Welker, January 31, was fined $1 and costs. Both men operate transfer wagons, and park their vehicles while idle, on Ninth street west of the city hall. In an altercation over parking space, Peyton smashed Welker with his fist and the end of the story remained to be told by Judge Chappell.

John Campsheide and John Herzenrader, charged with parking automobiles within fifteen feet of fire hydrants, were fined each 1 and costs.

BEGIN TRIAL OF RINGER

HASTINGS BOY FACES COURT MONDAY MORNING.

Confessed Killer of Carl Moore Is Denied Continuance or Change of Venue by Judge.

HASTINGS, Neb., Feb. 2.—Before a crowd that packed the district court room, trial of Donald Ringer, on the charge of slaying Carl Moore, Hastings auto salesman, on October 16, was begun this morning. Motions of the defense for continuance and for change of venue were overruled by Judge Dilworth and examination of jurors by County Attorney Crow for the state got under way shortly before noon.

J. E. Willete for the defense, contested that because of the keen interest in the case a trial without prejudice and passion can not be had at this time, and this was reason given for asking continuance or change of venue.

INTEREST RATES TOO HIGH

Lawyer Says Discriminatory Under Law When Applied to Interstate Business.

Former Attorney General Reed was in supreme court Monday morning defending his right to prosecute an appeal in a mortgage foreclosure case from Madison county, Klatterburg vs. Onalsett. The appellee wanted the case dismissed because the bill of exceptions was not served on time, and also on the ground that the answer states no defense.

The defense interposed by Mr. Reed for his client is that he is engaged in the business of raising cattle, hogs and grain for shipment to distant markets, and that this vests his business with the character of interstate commerce; that the rate of interest that may be lawfully collected on debts in this state is higher than in other states, and that this constitutes a discrimination against him and makes the collection of such interest rates unlawful.

ARREST LINCOLN MEN IN CHICAGO

L. M. Minard and L. C. McPheron Held on Charge of Removing Mortgaged Property From State.

L. M. Minard and L. C. McPheron, who purchased a Chrysler car, made a small payment giving a mortgage for $1,300 for the balance and then disappeared, are under arrest in Chicago and are being held for Lincoln authorities according to word received by Sheriff Hensel Monday morning.

A compalint charging them with removing mortgaged property from the state without the consent of the mortgagee was filed against them by the Chal-Max Motor Co. holders of thec hattel mortgage. Deputy Sheriff Hughart left Lincoln, Monday afternoon to return the men for trial. The car was in their possession at the time of their arrest.

The inventory of the $44,000 estate left by the late J. Henry Beckman who died September 9, 1924, was filed in the county court Monday morning. According to the inventory the deceased owned real estate in Lancaster and Seward counties valued at $13,600 and liberty bonds worth $30,000. He had $913 in cash at the time of his death.

WOULD HANG FOR SON

Aged Father of Russell Scott, Convicted of Murder, Pleads to Exchange Places.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—A father today offered to put his head in the hangman's noose to save his son from death.

Tears streaming down his face, his shoulders shaking with emotion, Thomas Scott, aged father of Russell Scott, convicted of murder, turned to newspaper men in the court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch and cried.

"I am willing to take the place of my son on the scaffold. He's just entering the threshold of life. I am old. I have worked out my life; there will be nothing left for me if my son dies. Let me take his place."

Russell was convicted of killing Joseph Maurer, a drug store clerk during a hold up here several months ago. Defense attorneys today appealed for a new trial and Judge Lynch postponed action to February 14 "only because a human life is at stake."

Scott, thirty, first sentenced to death on a plea of guilty was granted a retrial when his attorney begged on his knees for the life of his client. Later a jury found him guilty and the sentence was reaffirmed. Scott at one time was reputed to be a millionaire.

JEARY FOR UNION DEPOT

PROPOSES LAW TO ENABLE COUNCIL TO ACT.

Empowers That Body to Declare Necessity and Requires Railroads to Pay Equitable Share of Cost.

Senator Clark Jeary of Lancaster will introduce a bill Monday which he believes will authorize the city of Lincoln to solve the question of a union depot for railroads. The bill applies to cities of from 40,000 to 100,000 population. It authorizes the city council to determine and declare the necessity of a union depot. Upon notice of sixty days to the interested railroads the council is authorized to determine the need of such a structure and if the railroads refuse to provide a depot the council is empowered to determine the location, size and construction of the building. The amount each railroad is to contribute in payment of the structure is to be determined by the state railway commission. Five states have a law of this character and it has been declared constitutional.

Griswold of Sheridan introduced S. F. 144 Monday afternoon to amend the state hail insurance law so that instead of pro-rating the premiums to pay losses when there is not enough collected to pay all losses in any one season there shall be levied an assessment upon all applicants for state hail insurance. This assessment is to be large enough to pay all losses. Last year policy holders who had losses were obliged to accept 50 per cent of the amount of their losses.

Wiltse of Richardson, introduced S. F. 140, a bill to permit a deduction of debts from the taxable value of tangible taxable property.

Lucky of Platte, introduced a bill to increase the maximum city park levy from 2 mills to 4 mills. He introduced another to increase the rate of taxation upon intangible property from 20 per cent of the prevail rate in the taxing district where the intangible property is taxed. He proposes to make the rate tax 50 per cent of the rate on tangible property.

FRESH OUTBREAK AT HERRIN IS FEARED

Sheriff Galligan Says Another Company of Militia Needed.

FEELING AT FEVER HEAT

Stranger Shot by Policeman After Terroizing Hotel.

MYSTERY IN THE SHOOTING

Klan Forces Assert Victim Was Imported Gunman; Anti-Klansmen Say He Was Government Agent.

HERRIN, Ill., Feb. 2.—A fresh outbreak of the hate war—stirred by the slaying of a "mysterious stranger" early Sunday—is predicted for tonight by Sheriff George Galligan.

"We need the troops here again," Galligan said. "There will be trouble this afternoon when the grand jury meets at Marion and tonight when the Herrin city council meets to discuss the police problem."

Excitement is sort of at a fever heat since the Sunday morning shooting of the giant stranger who has been called Joe Phillips and William Howard. He has not been identified.

The stranger was shot in a scuffle with two policemen, after he had terrorized cooks and employes at the Lymar hotel.

The klan forces assert the man was an "imported gunman from East St. Louis". Anti-klan forces assert the man was a stranger to them and was known as a "government agent" who had been around the city jail at Marion for several days.

The latest outbreak of barking revolvers came just twelve hours after Sheriff George Galligan and Chief of Police Matt Walker had appealed for marital law in Herrin. No troops have been sent in but four state guard officers are here investigating conditions.

Mystery surrounds the latest victim of Herrin's factional fighting. He with a companion, entered the Lymar hotel early Sunday and started terrorizing hotel employees and the few guests he encountered. He called Glenn Fowler—a former bodyguard of S. Glenn Young, the klan leader—and announced he held a warrant for Fowler's arrest.

Entering the restaurant of the hotel the two men started brandishing revolvers. Sim Stephens promptly disarmed the first man, but the second shouted "hold 'em up."

Stephens grappled with the man and several shots were fired, one entering Stephens left shoulder.

At this time Rufus Whitson, another patrolman, entered and shot down the powerful stranger, the bullet entering the man's heart. He died almost instantly. The second man escaped from Stephens grasp and ran into the street escaping, presumably in a Ford touring car, which had been standing in front of the building.

The dead man wore a hat in the band of which was the name "Galligan."

However, Sheriff George Galligan says he does not know the stranger except that he had been around the county jail in Marion for several days. Galligan explains the hat by saying one of his hats disappeared from a rack at the city jail in Marion Saturday night.

An inquest was held late Sunday into the shooting when information was brought out that the stranger had been around Herrin fo several days. The inference was brought out that he had been friendly to the anti-klan element.

The state guard officers investigating conditions have seen no action yet, they say, which would cause calling the troops back in.

GROUND HOG SEES SHADOW

Will Seek Den for Another Six Weeks If the Myth Holds True.

Nebraska is scheduled for six weeks more of winter if the groundhog myth is to be relied upon, for no matter how many precautions may have been taken by the shy little animal, he undoubtedly saw his shadow when he emerged from winter quarters Monday morning, he forecast by the groundhog and that given by the weather man clash, however, for "warmer with rising temperatures" is the promise of the latter, for Monday and uesday.

The eastern portions of Nebraska were colder than the western sections Monday morning with the lowest temperature being at Sioux City where it was 8 below. Omaha was next in line with 4 below and Lincoln had a low mark of 3 below. North Platte was comparatively warm with a low point reached, of 12 above. It was 2 above at Valentine.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—The farm boys and girls from Pennsylvania and forty-seven other states of the union who form most of the native born population of Manhattan, had to do their own groundhog act as they popped out of subway burrows today and looked in vain for a shadow. An overcast sky guaranteed early spring and mild weather.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Mr. Ground Hog, Chicago, came out of his hole, sniffed, saw no shadow, and decided that he would stay out.

"Looks like an early spring," he said in an interview.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 2.—If the ground hog's disappointment in looking for his shadow has anything to do with it, spring is coming. It was gloomy in St. Paul today and the thermometer stood slightly above zero. There were snow flurries today and yesterday.

In a statement given out simultaneously with filing of the contest, Johnson said:

"I cannot refrain from protesting against the seating in the senate of a man unworthy of the position who gained his apparent victory by unlawful means and the most corrupt methods that ever besmitched the political life of our state."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

All the Armour plants over the country were closed for a day because of the funeral of P. D. Armour in Chicago. Orders to this effect were received by Mr. Brooks of the Lincoln agency.

Dr. Leon M. Solomons, instructor in philosophy in the University of Nebraska, died after six days' illness.

J. H. Fisher, Missouri Pacific engineer, died after suffering five months from Bright's disease.

Governor Poynter contemplated espousing the cause of the homesteaders and settlers in the western part of Nebraska against the encroachments of the cattle men. He expected to go to Washington and while there planned calling a meeting of governors of western states to take steps to counteract the action taken by live stockmen to lease all semi-arid and arid lands belonging to the government.

Stealing a span of horses, a set of harness and a new buggy was the favorite outdoor sport of bandits of 1900, to the dismay of young and old gentlemen who possessed such property.

George M. Alloway wrote from the Philippines where he was serving in the army. Fighting was apparently all over in the north, but continued on the south lines.

Eugene O'Brien and Mae Busch in "Frivolous Sal" at the Lyric.

It's seldom we get a picture as full of heart appeal, as wonderfully acted, as intelligently directed—with backgrounds as beautiful and majestic as the grandeur of our own beloved west, as in "Frivolous Sal," the feature attraction at the Lyric this week. "Frivolous Sal" is a story of a wonderful girl who found romance and thrill in the high mountains of the west, with Mae Busch, Eugene O'Brien, Ben Alexander; "What a Night," a new comedy that will keep you laughing for twenty minutes; interesting news and topical subjects and Mr. Cloud Smith, vocalist, completes a dandy two-hour entertainment just as you would like it. Music by the Lyric Concert orchestra, U. G. McVay, director, and Mrs. Mae M. Mills, organist.

"Find Your Man," "The Go Getters" and "Our Gang" at the Colonial This Week.

The whole family will enjoy the program that will be presented at the Colonial this week. Rin-Tin-Tin, the wonder dog in "Find Your Man" is a thrill a minute sensation, with a new screen star, June Marlowe. "Playing with Fire" the ninth exciting story of the "Go-Getter" series, and "High Society" a new explosion of laughter with "Our Gang." Kinograms of interest and interpretive music by J. N. C. Richards and D. F. Easterday, organists.

Big Attractions Will Appear at the Orpheum This Month.

The sensational dramatic success, "Rain," the most remarkable play of recent years, which has to its credit a two years' run in New York city will appear at the Orpheum February 16, 17 and 18, America's greatest annual revue, "Greenwich Village Follies" with Gallagher & Sheen, February 19, and Mitzi in "The Magic Ring," February 23.

Unusually Good Shows at the Liberty, Rialto, Lyric and Colonial This Week.

Manager Garman feels confident that the different programs presented at the Liberty, Rialto, Lyric and Colonial this week will meet the hearty approval of all those seeking recreation and real entertainment. Each program has been carefully selected with one thought in mind, "only the best is good enough for Lincoln."

Two Big Orpheum Circuit Attractions Headline New Bill Opening at the Liberty This Week.

The first half of this week, starting Monday matinee, John B. Hymer and associate players will be seen in a pretentious offering called, "Tom Walker in Dixie." It is a fantastic comedy novelty in four scenes, written and produced under the personal direction of Mr. Hymer—co-author of "East is West." "Tom Walker in Dixie" is one of the biggest laughing successes headlining the Orpheum circuit; "The Klown Revue" with Ploetz Brothers and Sister, is a melange of grotesque dancing and classic buffoonery; Hary Gilbert; the well-known funster and character song singer; Jerry Mack and company, in a mirth provoking playlet, "The Back Road;" Gates and Kane, the versatile dancing fools; "Ten Scars Make a Man," and Current News and Views. Here is a program that should attract capacity houses at every performance. Coming Thursday, Walter Davison and his Louisville Loons, a singing band, that is receiving the unstinted praise of the critics everywhere, four other excellent acts and Tabloid pictures. Music by Babich, the leader that makes hokum a pleasure, and his prize orchestra.

Cecil B. De Mille's Gorgeous Production, "The Golden Bed," at the Rialto.

Cecil B. DeMille has outdone himself in producing Wallace Irwin's searching and intimate novel of American morals and marriage. The master director who always has set the pace for lavish productions startles more than ever with the gasping gorgeousness of "The Golden Bed." When you behold the eyefilling spectacle of the novelty Candy Ball, the dazzling millionaire society wedding, the thrilling and beautiful scenes in the snow-topped Alps, the Golden Bed itself, around which revolves the story of the luxury-drunk society siren who attracts many loves and changes many lives, when you behold these and countless other sparkling highlights, you will tip your hat to the daring of De Mille and the golden triumph of "The Golden Bed." The cast includes Rod La Rocque, Vera Reynolds, Lillian Rich, Warner Baxter, Theodore Kosloff, Julia Faye. Atmospheric prologue, "The Golden Bed" a terpsichorean novelty and a brilliant musical program by the Rialto Symphony Players, Jean L. Schaefer, conductor, and Herbert C. MacAhan, organist.

Why and How?

Calling Porters "George."

Why are Pullman car porters always called "George"? George Pullman had a monopoly on the manufacture of sleeping-coaches, and when a passenger once asked a colored attendant his name he replied: "George." "George Pullman himself, I suppose," commented the passenger, to which the porter rejoined: "No, jes' George." The nickname stuck.

May Lose His Eyesight.

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Feb. 2.—While walking along the street of Mitchell, Fred Attaberry was painfully and perhaps seriously injured, when a branch that had been caught in a tree and held tight, was suddenly released and flew into his face with great force. It struck him in the eye, the end cutting a gash in his eyeball. It is feared by physicians that because of the hemorrhage inside the eye ball he will lose the sight of the eye.

HOME LIFE REFLECTED

COLLEGE FRESHMEN'S HABITS ALREADY FORMED.

Lincoln Ministers Discuss Religious Situation Among University Students Appoint Committee.

Student life in a university, religious and otherwise, reflects the life of the homes from which the students come, was the opinion at the ministerial association brought out in a discussion Monday morning on "The Religious Situation at the University." Rev. Ray E. Hunt, chairman of the executive committee, said the object of the discussion was to deliver what contribution the churches of the city are making towards university problems and what is contemplated by university pastors. At the close of the discussion the ministers voted to appoint three members to serve as a liason committee between the churches and university pastors and other religious workers among the students.

The subject was opened by the Rev. D. R. Leland, university pastor for the Presbyterians, who told of the recent conference in Chicago of church boards of education, university pastors and religious workers. Dr. Leland gave the substance of various reports and replies to questionnaires presented at the conference. One report dealt with replies from fifty fraternity men, from which was deduced the conclusion that fraternity life was in some respects helpful but that the moral code was not up to the highest standards.

The religious workers were hit hard at the conference from the student side, being characterized as "poorly paid second-raters." A questionnaire sent out under student auspices brought replies from 562 Michigan university students on what students think of religious workers. Dr. Artman of the University of Chicago was quoted by Dr. Leland as saying that 80 per cent of freshmen are at odds with the church when they come to a university and it is a tough job for the university to influence them The real responsibility rests back with the home and the home church.

Arthur Jorgensen, Y. M. C. A. secretary for the university of Nebraska, was to speak on conditions at the Nebraska university. His report was incomplete owing to his residence of only three months in Lincoln and the fact that but twelve of forty-nine pastors to whom a questionnaire had been sen,t had replied. The estimate of the twelve pastors wa staht 1095 different students had been under the influence of their churches during the last year thru service, Sunday schools or other church organizations.

Rev. C. S. Bream, pasotr of Grace Lutheran church, who had also attended the Chicago conference, spoke briefly on phases of the meetings. He had found the youth movement a sort of idealistic protest against formal organization.

Dr. S. Mills Hayes said too much attention was placed by professors on research and not sufficient on character and the realities of life. He spoke of the importance of imparting to students, mental integrity which would lead to moral integrity.

Dr. Hayes was called upon to explain the purpose of Helen Kelder's coming visit to Lincoln. He said Miss Keller was representing the American Foundation of the Blind, an oragnization which seeks to assist the blind by scientific methods and that Miss Keller would be heard at two mass meetings at St. Paul church. The ministers had been asked to speak on the needs of the blind at some previous service.

WOMEN PUT ON REAL BOUT

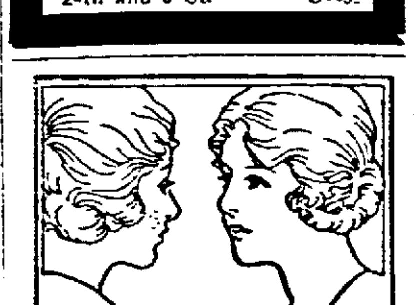

Stage a Contest Such as Chicago Had Not Seen for Many Years.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(United Press.)—Mrs. William H. Jackson arrived here from Omaha yesterday where she was discharged after several months' confinement in an Omaha hospital for nervous disorders. Her return was a riot. Mrs. Jackson learned from a sister that her husband, a Chicago merchant, had been showering attentions on Margaret Davis, Omaha nurse. Mrs Jackson met Miss Davis in front of the latter's northside residence, and a battle ensued such as Chicago has not seen since Sullivan met Kilrain.

It seems Jackson accompanied his wife west last November on a health tour. At Omaha he became ill and was operated on. Miss Davis nursed him back to health, and Jackson was able to return to Chicago in a week. His wife stayed in Omaha for treatment. Miss Davis followed Jackson here, police said. When Mrs. Jackson heard of the affair she hurried back.

Both Mrs. Jackson and Miss Davis spent the night in jail for disorderly conduct.

RAILROAD MEN ON TRIAL FOR THEFT

Four Former Rock Island Employes Charged With Stealing From Box Cars—Fifth to Aid Prosecution.

A federal jury was empaneled Monday to hear the government's case against four railroad men charged with stealing from interstate shipments on the Rock Island. The defendants are Robert L. Pool, conductor for many years; Roy E. Henderson, Isaac R. Evans and Lewis S. Parker, and they are represented by Hartigan & Fouts of Fairbury, Mr. Hartigan conducting the case. A fifth man indicted with them, Joseph Elder, pleaded guilty some months ago and will testify for the government.

Heaps of merchandise were piled on the floor of the court room, selected from that said to have been taken from freight cars fifteen months ago. The stuff included bolts of gingham and percale, woolen goods, cotton gloves, hosiery, sweaters, handkerchiefs and blankets. The men are also said to have taken automobile tires, candy and various articles of hardware from cars.

The first witness was A. J. Schreiber, shipping clerk for the Richardson Dry Goods company of St. Joseph, who described a bill of goods shipped to Mrs. Belle Winter at Kanorado, Kas., part of which was stolen. Sixty witnesses have been subpoenaed by the government.

Tangier — Abdul Krim, rebellious Moor who captured Raisuli, has promised to spare the former bandit's life.

THIEF SLUGS MAN AFTER ROBBERY

Night Prowler Attacks a Guest at the Home of W. C. Burmood, 740 North Twenty-fifth.

C. A. Hardin, 2990 Dudley, a guest for the night at the home of W. C. Burmood, 740 North Twenty-fifth, was knocked unconscious by a prowler who entered the Burmood house at 2:15 a. m., Monday, and Miss Martha Meyers, sleeping in another part of the house, reported $10 missing after the thief had gone, according to the report made to police headquarters.

Hardin, sleeping in a room near the front door, was awakened by a noise in the house, and went into the kitchen, where he turned on the light. In the hallway, a minute later, he was hit on the head by the burglar. When Mr. Burmood, awakened by the noise, came to investigate the trouble, Mr. Hardin was lying unconscious and the house-breaker was gone.

The thief had used a key to enter by a front door, according to all indications. Officers White and Schappaugh were assigned to investigate for the police.

A motion for rehearing of the state's ouster suit against the ku klux klan was filed by the klan attorneys in the supreme court of Kansas.

BILL IN SENATE PERMITS ITS MANUFACTURE.

Hoye's Measure From Omaha Promises That Makers Will Guard All Leaks and Extract Alcohol.

Senator Hoye of Omaha will soon be called upon to explain his bill, S. F. 94, relating to intoxicating liquors. It is to come before the committee on judiciary, a body headed by Cooper, also of Omaha. It is said this committee will do anything within reason for the brewers of Omaha and other cities in the state, but that it will not go beyond the legal limits to open the way for the manufacture of real beer under conditions that might allow some of the stuff to escape from the brewery and fall into the hands of innocent persons.

The committee all realize how a purchaser or a hijacker would feel if he should go out for a wagon load of near beer and later discover that by some mischance he had gotten a load of the real, intoxicating stuff. It is argued that if he should get tanked and feel that he had a cause for damages against the brewer, he might think twice before stirring up a row about the mistake if he found upon the statute books the Hoye bill which expressly provides that it shall be unlawful for any brewer to remove from any container in which the same was fermented, any fermented liquor used in the manufacture of near beer or non-intoxicating beverage, except for the purpose of immediate de-alcoholization, and then only thru the pipes or conduits containing no other openings that the connection with the opening into the de-alcoholizing machinery into which said fermented liquor is removed." That is what the bill says in italic type.

The word "de-alcoholization" is said by the anti-saloon league people to be the key note of the bill. The present law permits the manufacture of near beer. The bill reiterates that statement but proceeds to provide, without plainly saying so, for the making of real beer, by a proviso which permits the brewer to de-alconolize it or jerk the alcohol out of it. For fear that some of the real beer, when made and in fine condition for consumption might get away, the bill proposes that all the openings be closed, except one tiny one and that one to be used for passing the stuff thru a pipe for immediate de-alcoholization. There is an implied promise of no delay in the process of jerking the kick out of the beer. Men and machinery are to be hired for this purpose, and the ruthless job is to be performed as quickly as possible, in spite of prayers or tears of bystanders.

This round about way of making near beer, by first making real beer and immediately, without unnecessary delay, the sooner the better, taking out the kick, has puzzled some members of the senate, but it is announced that this process, not now permitted by law, is to be a boon for the weak and ailing, men, women and children, invalids and others, for the reason that near beer now legally made without a kick in it at any time is poof stuff compared to near beer made first with a kick and then the kick extracted by carefully conducting the real article thru the one hole provided by the Hoye bill directly into the de-alcoholizing apparatus. It is not the beer but the near beer thus made that does invalids good, according to supporters of the bill. Brewers in other states are doing it this way, and if Nebraska brewers are to be allowed to compete on equal terms with them and get within sight of the invalid trade, they must be allowed to make beer strong with alcohol and de-alcoholize it, first carefully guarding the openings other than the one connecting with the de-alcoholizing machinery. They are all honorable men, say the supporters of the bill, and will do that same. The members of the senate committee on judiciary are studying the various process of making near and far beer which can be pursued without violating the law.

"On this subject we may legislate and again we may legisearly," said one member of the committee, trying to pass it off with a jest."

This is the last day for the introduction of bills in the house. The constitution permits the introduction of bills for twenty days and then closes the gates except for the general appropriation bills which may be introduced up to the fortieth day. After the twenty days the governor has the privilege of calling the attention of the legislature, by special message, to the necessity of passing a law upon the subject embraced in his message, in which case, the constitution says, "the introduction of bills shall be restricted thereto." Nowhere does the constitution say who shall or who shall not introduce bills in the legislature.

The house and senate will convene Monday at 2 o'clock. It will be the seventeenth day's session of the senate. Thursday will be the time limit for introduction of bills in the senate.

Prior to the "twentieth day of each legislative session" the governor is required by statute to appoint a member of the board of control. This is in the nature of a nomination for the sanction of the senate only. As the nomination is to be submitted only to the senate Governor McMullen may be allowed until Thursday to make a nomination, tho some attorneys say this provision of law is merely directory and not mandatory. Two-thirds of the senate membership is required for confirmation.

While the governor has said he could reappoint A. E. Allyn who has served six years with satisfaction, he has not indicated whether he proposes to do so or to nominate one of the many applicants for this $4,000 job, good for a term of six years. Mr. Allyn changed his legal residence from Hastings to Lincoln and thus became ineligible to reappointment, but it is admitted he could re-establish his residence immediately in his former home city if he desires to make such a declaration.

SALESMEN RIDE TO CHURCH.

The men's class of the Elm Park Methodist church chose a novel method of increasing its attendance Sunday morning. A committee from the organization chartered a bus and visited hotel lobbies of the city, inviting all commercial travelers to attend. A well filled bus rewarded their efforts. The men were returned to their hotels after the service.

A New Serial Romance Dealing With the Trials of True Lovers

An Empty World.

The world has lost its charm for them—they were on the verge of breaking their engagement!

Lovers were everywhere. Bob saw them on the subway and lunching in the downtown restaurants. Marcella saw them strolling past her home. But what was there in life for them?

For three weary days they were perfectly miserable. No matter where Marcella went he saw a man who reminded her of Bob and no matter how hard Bob tried to lose himself in the business world a vision of Marcella with her halo of curly bobbed hair and her deep purplish gray eyes seemed to haunt him.

How had it all happened? How long would each hold out? Each felt it was a matter of principle. But as time went on each realized that these dreadful days of suspense could not go on forever. Every time the telephone buzzed on Bob's desk he hoped to hear Marcella's happy voice. Every time Marcella saw a florist's motor or the postman pass she held her breath hoping it was some message from Bob. But all was dead between them.

Evenings, immediately after dinner, the young people locked themselves in their rooms and wrote page after page to each other only to tear the whole thing into tiny bits before retiring. Pride would not let either of them take the first step toward a reconciliation.

Bob told himself time and time again that he did not have a jealous disposition. He knew, too, that Marcella loved him better than any man.

Marcella was a strictly modern girl and loved the expression "personal liberty." She wanted Bob to realize that he must not dictate in regard to her friends. Other engaged girls of her acquaintance received their former beaux as callers, and she did not intend to go back to mid-Victorian days.

But at last—the break came. It came for both of them. The evening came when the letters they had written each other were not torn to tiny bits, but mailed. While they were not exactly letters of apology, and both managed to cling fondly to their principles, each letter held out the olive branch and there was a postscript of "please telephone me some time this evening" on each letter.

Bob was on his way home from the letter box when he stopped suddenly. What a brute he was to expect Marcella to wait another long stretch of hours! He glanced at his watch. A little abter 9. Without another moment's hesitation he turned his steps toward Marcella's home, dashed up the stairs and rang the bell three times—his ring!

A little wait and then, as he peered anxiously thru the sheer curtains at the little window over the door, he saw Marcella herself tripping lightly to the door.

BREAD PRICE IS ADVANCING

FRANCE AND ENGLAND FEEL THE WHEAT SHORTAGE.

Charge Made That Speculation in Chicago and Winnipeg Has Resulted in High Price of Bread.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The price of bread is being advanced thruout Europe this week. In London, a four pound loaf of bread costs eleven pence from today, an advance of one penny. Prices in Rome, Paris and Vienna either were raised or are about to be.

Addressing a labor meeting here, E. F. Wise, who was a witness at the recent official food investigation, charged that an "orgy of grain specualtion at Chicago and Winnipeg" is responsible for the rising price of bread."

The reduced wheat output largely is due to lack of Russian grain, Wise said, and to the partial failure of the Canadian crop.

A rise at least five cents on the prices of a loaf of bread in France is expecide this week. The wheat shortage in France is causing the government concern and measures to persuade the public to economize in bread and flour are being instituted.

At Prague, thep rice of grain in Chicago has caused violent fluctuations of the Czech Grain Exchange and the government forecasts most stringent measures to check the rapidly rising price of flour.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 2.—Bread prices were boosted from one to two and a half cents a loaf today by Cenrtal Pennsylvania bakers as the result of mounting costs of flour and other ingredients.

HASTINGS COLLEGE REACHES ITS GOAL

Goes Over the Top in a $400,000 Endowment Campaign During Last Three Hours of Alloted Time.

HASTINGS, Neb., Feb. 2.—More than a year of unceasing effort was crowned with success here Sunday night when Hastings college went over the top in its $400,000 endowment campaign.

The goal was reached within three hours of the dead line set, in a number of large pledges from the east.

The total today was $473,000 which includes $70,000 needed for current debt that some pledges said must be paid by February 2. This brings the total endowment of the institution up to $653,000, the first step toward a $2,000,000 endowment to be sought within the next five or six years.

Approximately $200,000 is now in the building fund toward the $1,000,000 worth of new buildings which are to be erected soon. They include a new gymnasium for which around $17,500 is now pledged; an administration building at $300,000; a chapel at $125,000, and a girls' dormitory, for which the first story is already erected, at $125,000.

DORIS MEETS A PROUD LITTLE DADDY.

DORIS tried her very best to slip up nearer the dear little bird without being noticed, but her foot caught on a twig and made a rustling sound.

"That's too bad," chirped the bird with a funny little "pink, pink" that sounded like a laugh. "But you needn't try to be so quiet. I'm used to a clatter and don't mind it one bit."

"Gracious on us!" Doris laughed. "And you're not afraid of me?"

"Certainly not," replied the bird, running up close enough for Doris to get a good look at him. "Mama Woodcock and I have never harmed anyone in all our lives, so why should I fear anything?"

"So you're a Woodcock!" Doris exclaimed. "I don't believe I've ever seen a Woodcock before. I hope you don't mind if I'm a wee bit rude and stare at you."

"Go right ahead and take a good look," laughed Daddy Woodcock. "Then when you see me again you'll know me. Mama Woodcock looks just like me, too. Something most feathered folks can't boast of," and Daddy Woodcock stood perfectly still so Doris could get a good look at him.

He was just about ten inches long. His upper parts were gray, brown, black, with a wee bit of buff. A line of black on the front of his head and another black line running from his bill to his eyes looked comical. The black, with three bars of buff on the back of his head, looked like a cap. His eyes were large and seemed very far apart. His bill was long, straight and quite stout. His vest was of a reddish brown, his wings and legs were quite short.

"I'm not exactly a good-looker," he chuckled, "but I am a proud daddy. If you don't think I have reason, just come along and see for yourself," and he led Doris over among the rushes that bordered the stream.

There, right near on old dead stump on a nice bed of dry leaves, sat Mama Woodcock as happy as she could be.

"I might know Daddy Woodcock would bring home a guest," she chirped. "He's so proud of his family."

"Family?" mused Doris, but at the sound of her voice out peeked about eight or ten fluffy heads from under their mother's feathers. When Doris laughed, back they darted out of sight. "Oh, do let me see them!" she begged.

Mama Woodcock stepped off her nest and out tumbled the wee fluffy balls. Their bills were so long and they looked so funny Doris couldn't help but laugh.

"Well, how's that for a dandy family?" chirped the proud daddy. "Isn't that something to be puffed up over? They are beginning to hunt for themselves already. Come, youngsters, and gobble a worm."

The funny little fluffy birds tumbled out of the nest and stuck their long bills into the mud. Most of them were repaid by drawing out a wiggling earthworm. Then they scampered once more for their warm bed.

"I don't blame you for being proud," laughed Doris, "and I just hope we won't have any cold weather to harm you. But I must hurry home, as it is growing late." Bidding the new family good-by, Doris scooted for home to tell her mama what she had seen.

A WIFE'S CONFESSIONAL

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1925, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Nurse Uses a Ruse Upon Madge with Telling Effect.

WHILE I am a healthy and fairly strong young woman, yet I am no paragon of physical prowess, and my husband's mother is no light burden. Falling insensible against me after our return from the woodland, I managed to get her to the kitchen door without help. I have often wondered how I did it even though the distance traversed was a short one. But accomplish the feat I did, and summoned help by kicking the door.

I heard Katie's voice in high-pitched vituperation as she realized that it was a kick instead of a knock upon her carefully scrubbed white door.

"Qvit dot you bum, whoever you are," she called raucously. "You tink I haf nodings else to do mitout scrubbing doors after your muddy—Oh-h- Missis Graham, vot happened. Ees old vomans dead? I told you old vomans go dead. Don't you know I told you——"

"Hush!" I commanded, all the more sternly, because I was not at all sure that my ignorant, superstitious little maid was not right in her surmise. "Help me carry her to the couch in the library, and keep quiet. We must not make any noise that young Mrs. Durkee can hear."

"I no speak," she whimpered, and with head averted, she grasped Mother Graham's feet, shivering as she did so, and walked with me to the library couch. She could have given me no plainer proof that she believed life to have fled from our burden. I was relieved, indeed, to see Edith Fairfax passing through the hall. I had meant to summon the nurse in attendance upon Leila and the baby as soon as I had put my mother-inlaw's limp figure down. And here was the ideal messenger ready to my hand, one who would not alarm Leila, as Katie surely would have done.

Edith Calls the Nurse.

Edith took one swift glance at us, spoke softly over her shoulder.

"I'll get the nurse at once," she said, wasting no time in questions. I spoke peremptorily to Katie when we had laid Mother Graham flat upon the couch.

"Have you boilink water in the teakettle?"

"Oh! yes, Missis Graham, but she no can swallow und you burn——"

"Will you be quiet?" I said sternly. "Bring me a cup of the boiling water, an empty bowl, and a pitcher of cold water at once."

"Oh! sure, I feex," she promised tearfully. Even before Leila's nurse appeared, she was back with the things for which I had asked. I covered the boiling water against some possible need of the nurse—and sprinkled the cold water into the ashen face of my mother-in-law. The time-honored remedy was of no avail, and I think my pallor rivaled that of the unconscious woman when the nurse, calm, efficient, and apparently unhurried, stalked into the room. Bending over my mother-in-law, with hand over her heart and ear close to her mouth she waited only an instant before turning to me.

"I shall have to give her an hypodermic," she said crisply. "I do not dare wait for a physician. Have I your permission?"

"I Am All Right!"

There was a touch of formality in her manner which made me realize how closely she observed the punctilios of her profession. She had been in attendance upon Mother Graham, with full authority for hypodermics only a few days before, but because she had been transferred to Leila, she wished to be sure of my sanction before administering one. I noticed, however, that she had not finished her sentence before she began preparing her needle, and my heart warmed to her resourceful competence as I answered——,

"Of course. Do whatever you think best."

A nod was my only answer. Then, her preparations completed, she bent above the inert figure on the couch. It was but a few seconds afterward, that with fingers on pulse and eyes watching the faintly returning respiration, she spoke softly.

My knees buckled under me, and I caught at a chair back, to keep myself from falling. The nurse looked up at me with a little smile, which had in it something suspiciously like a sneer.

"Do you want one too?" she asked.

The gibe was as potent as any drug could have been. Instinctively, I loosened my hold upon the chair and squared my shoulders.

"Indeed, no," I retorted a bit tartly. "I am perfectly all right.'

"Glad to hear it, the nurse returned nonchalantly. "You don't look like the variety of woman who crumples up, uselessly, when there's a crisis, but you never can tell."

I knew, of course, that the nurse's strictures were as impersonal as her hypodermics. By her stabbing speech, she simply was insuring me against a collapse; but woman-like, it took all the grace I had to keep resentment from my face and voice as I murmured meekly,—

"Just tell me what you wish me to do. I shall not fail you."

THE HOME KITCHEN

New Dishes Made from Left-Overs Are Found Good

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

IT'S the helpful homey dishes that make the changes possible in the daily menu where economy must be taken into account. These dishes include the ones concocted from so-called left-overs—cheese dishes, egg dishes and fish dishes made from the various canned varieties. A simple dessert always helps out a plain meal and there are many that can be quickly made and at small cost.

Cheese Souffle.

Blend together one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter and a tablespoonful of flour and heat them in a saucepan. When melted, add a half cupful of rich milk, heat, season with salt and pepper, then add the beaten yolk of three eggs and a cupful of grated cheese. Blend all together, then turn into a bowl to cool. When cool add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and pour into a buttered baking dish and bake for twenty minutes in a medium and steady oven. Serve as soon as done.

New England Fish Pudding.

Take two pounds of freshly boiled codfish, remove the skin and bones and flake coarsely. Put a layer of the fish in a buttered pudding dish, sprinkle with minced onion, a few crumbs, dot with butter, dust with pepper and salt, then cover with a layer of sliced cold boiled potatoes. Repeat the layers, then add a layer of chopped clams, and cover with a few crumbs. Dot with butter, add a small cupful of cream, in which an egg has been beaten, and a half cupful of clam juice. Bake almost forty minutes in a medium oven.

Veal Ramekins.

Chop fairly fine enough cold, cooked veal to make two cupfuls. Add a very finely minced onion, pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of crumbs, a tablespoonful of chopped nuts and enough cream sauce to bind the mixture. Fill buttered ramekins with the mixture lightly, dust with a little grated cheese, and bake in a medium oven ten to twelve minutes.

Clams Baked in the Shells.

Scrub, then steam open eighteen hard clams. Remove the clams and chop them, then add a half cupful of crumbs, a grated onion, a chopped hard-boiled egg, a half teaspoonful of curry powder, pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of minced celery leaves. Moisten slightly with a very little bit of heavy cream. Take as many of the shells as are to be needed and butter them, then fill lightly with the mixture. Dot the tops with butter and place them on a baking sheet and bake in a medium oven about twelve minutes, or until they are a delicate brown. Serve two shells to a portion, garnished with sprays of parsley drawn through slices of lemon. The clams may be used for the fish course or as a relish.

ICEBOUND

POOR little heart! All frozen and covered with ice and so shivery cold! And she to whom the heart belongs looks disdainfully at Cupid and the love which he is offering her—the love which she knows will thaw her heart. And she doesn't want it thawed! She's afraid of love! But soon all the ice and snow will be gone, the Winter will be over, and the wonderful Spring of Love will drive away the fear. And in the warmth of the Summer sunshine and the fragrance of the flowers and the soft winds, Love will win, and the heart which now seems to Him so cold, so distant, will thaw and expand under Cupid's guidance and then "they will live happily ever after!"

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Poisonous Old Bones

Copyright, 1925, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

WAS he bitten by a tarantula down there in Mexico, the great discoverer, or did he die because he was poisoned by handling old bones, long buried in the mysterious earth?

He was a great scholar, Professor William Nevir, and he's been down in Mexico digging in the ancient ruins there.

A few days ago he found an old burial place, forgotten generations ago, and he uncovered bones of a human body, wrapped in some strange cloth which must have been woven centuries and centuries past.

He held the bones in his hand and looked at them carefully—and all at once he fell to the ground unconscious.

He was taken to his tent, absolutely helpless, and no one knows whether he was bitten by a tarantula or poisoned by old bones.

We're poisoned by old bones every day, everyone of us.

The old bones of prejudice, the old bones of bigotry, the old bones of hate that ought to have been burned in cleansing fires, long and long ago.

"And Who Was She—?"

"Yes, she seems all right—now—I wonder where she came from and who she was before she was married?"

Old bones—how poisonous they are.

"He's a fine man," they say, "brave, loyal, generous, but wasn't that his father who got into that scrape down south years ago? Wonder if the son doesn't take after him a little?"

Old bones—old bones; what venomous poison they can carry.

"Yes, she's a great singer, but there's something about the way she walks I don't like and I never hear her at all. She reminds me of a woman who did me a great injury once. She may be all right but I can't bear to see her."

"I hate that town. Oh, yes, it's pretty enough, but I met my husband there and you know what a brute he turned out to be. Yes, he's still living; I hope he's as unhappy as he ought to be."

"No, I haven't seen her for years. She lived next to me when she was a little girl, and they say her mother used to wash and iron her clothes at night, so that nobody would know she did it herself. They say she has eight servants now—wonder where she learned how to manage them?"

"My mother always made hers with brandy. I don't care for mince pie made any other way."

"My cousin was a great artist they say. I can't see it at all myself. I never can forget what a mean, bullying coward he was when he was living."

Old bones—old bones; how bitter their poison is.

I'm not going to bury my bones, it's too dangerous. Somebody's sure to dig them up sometime. No, I'm going to burn mine and then scatter the ashes and let them fall into the sea.

"Bundle of Agonizing Memory."

The old bones of my old quarrels and my old enmities and my old bitterness—ah, you gleam white there in the moonlight, you cruel bundle of agonizing memory—I shan't keep you to torment me.

So—you're burned, you're gone, you're forgotten. No evil that has ever been done to me or mine shall have the power to poison me or my descendants.

The bitter word, spoken in anger—burn the bones, don't keep them. The cringing disloyalty, the cruel deceit—gone—burned—forgotten.

Let's have no bones that are old enough to poison us.

They aren't worth the keeping.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been a silent reader for quite a while, but since I saw Dojoco's letter in the paper I thought I too would write a few lines.

Good for you Dojoco. I wish the girls would open up their eyes a little and see what fools the boys make of them.

I think a girl can be just as attractive and sweet without letting men kiss her.

I would like to see more girls and men write in and give their opinion.

MISS DOJOCO NO 2.

MISS DOJOCO NO. 2: You have no idea what a pleasure it is to read such letters as yours, dear reader. And how glad I am that you decided to break your silence, for no doubt your words will give cheer and encouragement to countless young men and women.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am just entering my twenties and have been going out with young men quite a lot. I have been going with two young men now for about six months. I also have other friends. Both of these young men want me to go steadily with them, and they both have told me how much they think of me, I like both of these men and value them as good friends, but I am not ready to settle down.

I like to go out for a nice time. I do not care for wild parties, or the kind of people who go in for such amusement. I like to dance and am considered a good dancer.

I am going away and am to be the guest of a young man. Is it proper for me to let him get me a room with friends of his if they are the proper kind of people? I do not want to stay at a hotel, and the "Y" does not have single rooms and I do not care to room with a stranger. He has given me the very best kind of references about these people, and I am considering staying with them.

BORS.

BORS: The important question for you to consider is whether or not you should go to visit this young man. Most decidedly not unless the invitation comes from his mother or sister and they provide a place for you to stay. You may know this man very well, dear, and trust him implicitly, but you will be doing yourself a great injustice by going under any other circumstances, for you know how quick people are to talk.

As for the other men, tell them just how you feel toward them and if they value your friendship sufficiently, dear, they will be glad to accept your conditions.

Be Pleasant and Interested to Retain Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

KEEP your youth! This is one of the surest ways to achieve beauty and attractiveness, and to keep these valuable possessions.

This goal is one well worth keeping before you always. The way to attain any goal which we set for ourselves, is, I am sure, to keep an image of it before our eyes and work toward this goal. To do this, you can accept no substitutes.

LUCREZIA BORI

Now when I advise you to keep your youth, I mean certain definite things. I mean to keep your interest and enthusiasm in the things around you, and to keep on learning. Whenever you feel that you are too old to learn anything old age has truly set in.

The mind that is enthusiastic and interested is the mind that never grows old. Its catching youthfulness is reflected in the eyes, and the whole expression of its power. It is only the interested, alert, bright, happy person who can be beautiful.

No matter how perfectly moulded the features may be, you have never seen a person with a dissatisfied, grouchy expression who was really beautiful. If the mouth turns down at the corners in a dissatisfied droop, and the eyes are dull and unenthusiastic and lifeless, their owner cannot be really pretty.

On the other hand the woman who does not possess beautiful features can appear pretty and attractive if she takes particular beauty care of herself.

If you have some work to do, whether it be housework or a business occupation, this interest can give you much to help you keep young. One of the secrets is to try and do your job in the best way you know how, and you will become so interested that you will forget any drudgery that may be connected with it.

Do not think that by advising you to remain young I mean trying to dress in a manner far younger than your years, or trying ot act the ingenue. This is never to be advised, for it only accentuates the fact that a woman is really older than she acts.

Still, the clothes of today are so simple and youthful and flattering that it is not difficult to find appropriate models for every type. Clothes, if they are properly chosen, can do much to accentuate the good looks of the wearer. If you study your particular type so that you become thoroughly familiar with the colors which accentuate the beauty of your hair and eyes, and with the lines that are most becoming to your figure, you will find that this helps you a hundredfold in your desire to appear at your best at all times.

Arrange your hair in some becoming soft way. Care for your skin so that it appears at its best, keep your nails well-groomed, your shoes well polished, and your collars and cuffs immaculate.

All these things combine to make the sum total of beauty, which is so desired by every woman who realizes that it is a real duty for her to make the best of the natural gifts that she possesses.

You may have a general feeling that you are making the best of your beauty requisites without really going into things minutely and being sure that you are making the best of yourself.

For instance, take your present manner of coiffuring your hair. Have you decided upon it after trying out various coiffure fashions and making sure this is the best one? If not, you should try this out immediately, for with the aid of a good hand-mirror you may find that there is a way of doing your hair which is far more becoming to you.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3.

Conflicting planetary forces dominate on this day. While there is excellent promise for benefits, favors and preferment, especially for those in the employment of others, yet two of the powerful malefics hold malignant sway. Anxiety and reverses are forecast from these, with definite menace to business and to physical well-being. All should be wisely safeguarded.

Those whose birthday it is are under a conflicting presage for the year. Although the prospect for advancement and honors is encouraging, other auguries offset this by holding a menace of setbacks and reverses. Care should be taken that the physical condition be not a contributing factor to the obstructed state of affairs. They should protect themselves against all manner of disruptive forces. A child born on this day may be expected to make its best success in the employment of others. Its career may be notable for the suddenness of events.

YOUR HEALTH

Life Can Be Prolonged by Using Common Sense

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

"COMMON sense rather than monkey glands or monkey shines is lengthening the span of life." This was the interesting comment of Chauncey M. Depew on his ninetieth birthday.

"There is one rule of life bearing on this subject that will materially help, if it is followed," said Senator Depew. "I have followed it myself, and I ought to know. It is this; no matter how much you like anything, drop it if it does not like you."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could get everybody to follow that wise suggestion?

You get up in the morning with a headache. You have no appetite for breakfast. You begin your day a wreck, instead of an eager soldier. Why?

You danced till midnight, ate a hearty supper of lobster and oysters after that, and stayed awake because the strong cofee over-stimulated your tired nervous system. Why shouldn't you be too worn to go to work at the regular hour?

You liked it? Of course, you did. But, as Senator Depew suggests, that sort of life does not like you. You should drop it.

After all, however, it isn't the doing of things that harms you. It is the overdoing.

Temperance is a word too limited in its application. Apply the real meaning of the word to your daily habits and you will have solved the secrets of long life.

If you are temperate you can do the things you like to do in moderation. If you are intemperate, there is no other course except to accept the Depew philosophy. No matter how much you like it, drop the practice if it doesn't like you.

The Senator is right in believing long life is the result of conforming to correct hygienic ways. Simple eating is the secret of good digestion. Simple living is the secret of clear thinking.

After all, you see, it really is common sense which is fundamental to the kind of life likely to prolong itself through an exceptional number of decades.

I'd rather trust common sense in living than all the medicine bottles and monkey glands in the world.

Corn-Hued Crepe and Gold Lace Make a Gorgeous Dinner Gown.

STRAIGHT from France comes this most effective dinner gown. It is built on straight lines, showing a long, slim tunic, with a few inches of plain skirt beneath.

The dress combines corn-colored crepe and gold lace. The crepe really forms a small part of the gown, however, as the lace inserts cover so much space that they only leave strips of the crepe.

The longer tunics, of this type, will be smart for Spring. Notice that the foundation skirt is split in front to allow room for dancing.

ETHEL LEGINSKA FOUND.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Ethel Leginska has been located after a week's search by the police. The pianist, who disappeared last Monday night while on her way to Carnegie Hall, was found in a small Pennsylvania town and is now with friends in Boston, according ot the police. Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: We hear of so much sorrow brought to parents by their children at school and I am wondering if our schools are not being overdone with the woman teacher, especially the married ones. It was forcibly brought to my mind last evening. A group of students were roaring with fun and laughter. It seems one of them "flunked" and the one that copied from the "flunked" one got a fair grade. Every one of those students questioned whether the teacher graded all papers or marked by name. It seems papers were not handed back to pupils—one said "Why that would be dishonest." (Here is where we got our bomb.) One fine looking boy said: "Say whenever a teacher with a perfectly strong and good husband is teaching she is not honest—no woman or man is honest who assumes the responsibility of marriage and then shirks every one of those same responsibilities. Why several of us fellows have talked that over lots of times."

A judge on a bench for years could not have handed down a finer, more honest verdict. In our crowd were some learned men and they really gasped with surprise at so young a crowd having the very keen insight they did. They discussed the holding up of a pupil's credit for lack of swimming stunts and some sort of a bar or scissors stunt.

We pay taxes quite a lot but we never knew that in a so-called city of education that there was such a thing as a pupil's credit being held up for lack of swimming or any other athletic stunt. I think it high time taxpayers find out just what we are paying for.

Supposing a hard working man is struggling to put his children thru school and for the want of some swimming stunt or athletic stunt that same child loses credit; can't graduate on account of not being a "fish" or a "jumping jack." From some of the neglected homes during time pool is open and from some of the poor little kids saying "Oh mama, come on out," I judge there are enough folks "wild" about swimming without barring a child from its certificate at school.

We were really surprised to know swimming or any athletics had anything to do with graduating. I wonder how many of those pupils go out into the world to make their living by what they learn from such. If a pupil really wants to swim let them swim, but for a father that has a "job" and not a position, to hold back credits for such a child is very little short of insanity.

We one time resented hearing it said a child that come out of the eighth or ninth grade and went thru business college had a much better foundation for life than the child that had so much nonsense put to them in higher grades—but I am beginning to think the good old doctor knew mighty well of what he talked.

We need more strong men on the teachers roll and less of this modern nonsense. Where do you find today more solid, honest, successful men than those that got their "athletics" at the wood pile and sister got hers learning to keep a home? I guess I'll beat the "young ones" to it and sign.—Old 76.

A. School is supposed to broaden one, physically as well as mentally. Why should not the child from the poor home have a chance at developing his body thru athletics as well as the child of the well-to-do? And as for swimming, it is something everyone should know, for his own welfare in case of emergency, as well as for the training it gives his body.

Dear Mary Gordon: I am a young girl 16 years old and I was wondering if I am too young to start working on fancywork for a hope chest. I am away from home, going to school and as I don't run around much would like this work to pass away my spare time. Will you please answer these questions for me?

1. Would soap and warm water clean a white suede belt without spotting it?
2. Should a person remove their gloves before shaking hands with a stranger?
3. Should a person shake hands when being introduced?
4. Should the girl enter her home first, this being the first time for the boy to stop after being for a ride?
5. Should the young man escort the young lady to the door of her home when returning from an evening party?
6. Should the young lady be seated by her friend (boy) while eating?—Another Bill.

A. Start a hope chest if you wish. It will be lots of fun adding to it.

1. Yes, use pure white soap and very little water.
2. A man should; a girl should not.
3. It depends on how cordial you wish to be.
4. Yes.
5. Yes.
6. It doesn't matter.

STORE LOOT TAKEN BACK

Men Held in Connection With Theft Went to Sleep in Stolen Auto.

Three deputy sheriffs from Maryville, Mo., identified merchandise Sunday alleged to have been taken in a Missouri store looting job. Thomas Hoak, alleged marine deserter, and Ora Redman of Los Angeles, are being held in jail in Lincoln for investigation in connection with the theft of a 1924 Buick touring car in which they were found asleep four miles west of Lincoln Friday morning. They were headed west.

According to State Sheriff Condit, information by wire from California authorities indicates that the car was stolen at Needles, Cal., Dec. 21. The loot, consisting of shoes, shirts, turnishings, cigars, cigarets and other items was found in the car, according to the officers. The Missouri authorities took the plunder back with them.

What disposition will be made in regard to the prisoners, has not been determined. Two states apparently are interested.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT IN JAW

Bridgeport Man Is Seriously Wounded by Small Rifle.

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Feb. 2.—While riding in a wagon near Sunol, with his little son who was carrying a .22 calibre automatic rifle from which the shells were supposed to have been removed, Peter Rasmusson was accidentally shot and seriously wounded. The bullet pierced his lower jaw split in two parts and ranged downward. One of the pieces shattered his jaw on the right side of his face, and remained imbedded in the face, and the other piece remained imbedded in the fleshy part of his right cheek.

HALTER UPON CAMPAIGN LIE

WHITE WOULD MAKE MISDEMEANOR TO CIRCULATE ONE.

Bill Also Seeks to Require Teller of Tales About State Officials to Prove His Statement.

Among the new bills introduced on the last day in the house for receiving them, is one by White, who wants to make it a misdemeanor to circulate a campaign lie, tell a falsehood about a public official or repeat a rumor about a neighbor. In any prosecution it is up to the defendant to prove that he investigated the story before passing it on.

O'Malley fathers a "pure bedding" bill. He would make it an offense for factories to turn out mattresses that are made of second hand materials without tagging them and provides for inspection and licenses.

New bills introduced at the Monday afternoon session were:

H. R. 324, by Caldwell—Giving priority to mechanics' liens when properly filed regardless of when mortgage was given for money borrowed on property upon which work was performed.

H. R. 325, by O'Malley—Defines bedding and requires the use of sanitary materials under that heading. Requires tags or labels showing name and address of owner to be affixed when same is received by renovating or cleaning establishments. Forbids use of materials from any bedding previously used by any person having an infectious or contagious disease. All bedding sold must be conspicuously tagged to show whether made of new material or second hand stuff. Factory licenses to be issued by state public welfare department. Inspection fee fixed at $10, or maximum of $20 in any one year. Penalty for violation, $25 to $500 fine, or imprisonment not over six months, or both.

H. R 326, by White—Makes it a misdemeanor to circulate or repeat any false rumor detrimental to the standing or character of another person, whether he be a private citizen, public official or candidate for office. Penalty $10 to $100 fine, or ten to fifty days in jail, or both. Burden of proof on defendant to show that he carefully investigated the report before repeating it and believed there were reasonable grounds for it. This defense available only when sources of information are disclosed.

H. R. 327, by Essam and other republican members of finance committee—Governor McMullen's budget recommendations for salaries of state officers, deputies and secretaries, which are fixed by the constitution or statute.

H. R. 328, by same—Supreme court's budget carrying a total of $322,300 for the state judicial establishment and state library, but not including district courts.

H. R. 329, by same—General biennial budget bill for maintenance, permanent improvements, upkeep, salaries and wages and other running expenses of all state departments, institution and activities for the next biennium.

H. R. 330, by Reeder—Slight amendment of law governing irrigation district bonds, making provisions apply generally instead of to districts that contain not more than 7,000 acres of land.

H. R. 331, by Coulter—Appropriates $2,000 for experimental investigations in irrigation and drainage, by agricultural department of Chadron state normal. Emergency.

H. R. 332, by Lee of Adams—Allots to cities and villages 15 per cent of automobile license fees collected by the county treasurer from their inhabitants.

H. R. 333, by Lee of Adams—Permits filling vacancies on non-political state ballot by filing a petition containing 1,000 signatures with the secretary of state, for office of state superintendent. Of these not less than 15 per cent shall be from each congressional district. In case of university regents, who are elected by districts, 300 signatures are required.

H. R. 334, by Bock—Relating to tests for bovine tuberculosis, providing that when an animal is part of a herd located within an area established and maintained for testing purposes, the inspection of such animal shall take place at such time or interval as may be required by department of agriculture.

H. R. 335, by Wingett—Requires county board to publish personal tax lists in all newspapers of the county, dividing it for that purpose so that each taxpayer's assessment shall be published so far as possible within or near the precinct where he resides.

H. R. 336, by Wingett—Makes theft of poultry or receiving stolen fowls, a penitentiary ocense in every case, and increases maximum term therefor from three to seven years. Minimum term remains at one year. Alternate jail term of ten days to six months is wiped out.

H. R. 337, by Axtell—Increases limit of tax levy for municipal support of band or other musical organization from one mill to two mills. Provides for submitting question to voters on a 5 per cent initiative petition fixing rate of levy.

H. R. 338, by Johnson (Washington) and Keck—Provides that three district judges shall be appointed by the governor from a list of six names submitted to him by the state supreme court, to assist the high court for four years beginning Sept. 1, 1925, in catching up with its docket. Provides that the supreme court shall sit thereafter in two divisions of five judges each. No two of the judges so selected shall be from the same congressional district. They may be assigned to relieve other district judges should the supreme court see fit. Appointment of two stenographic assistants at $1,00 a yaer each is authorized. Appropriates $36,000 for salaries of district judges and stenographers.

H. R. 339, by Keck and others—Relating to a tax upon gasoline and other petroleum products and for collection and distribution thereof upon highways. Blank bill to be filed in later.

H. R. 340, by same—Blank bill relating to collection, distribution and expenditure of highway funds.

H R. 341, by same—Blank bill for distribution of motor license fees.

H R. 342, by Johnson (Phelps), Johnson (Sheridan) and Anderson—Gives specific and detailed authority to state railway commission over freight service within the state, including demurrage rules and regulations, minimum speed of trains and other matters.

H. R. 343, by Johnson of Phelps—Authorizes capitol commission to deliver on the state penitentiary grounds materials salvaged from the old capitol building, the expense to be borne out of the capitol fund. Board of control to use this material at the penitentiary or other state institutions for constructing buildings. Convict labor may be used in hauling and handling materials.

OHIO TOWN HAS A FIRE.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2. J. B. Lewis was carried to safety thru smoke filled corridors and forty other guests fled in scanty attire when fire broke out in the Metropolitan hotel opposite the Ohio State House early today. The flames were brought under control shortly before 8 a. m. after damaging the hotel, a drug store, a cafe and a candy store in the same block, to the extent of $125,000.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whisky, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Advertisement.

GUM SHOES ON MONDAY

LEGISLATORS IN RETIRING AND MODEST MOOD.

Those Waiting for Last Minute to Hop in With Bills Not Inclined to Spread Any Sort of Propaganda.

Gum shoes were popular foot coverings in representative hall Monday. Members expecting to slip in the last minute with bills, were not spreading propaganda. There were any number of quiet conferences. Hip-pocket bills were smothered by coat-tails. Several rumors were afloat as to ideas just out of the hatchery. Another marriage bill was to appear, according to one rumor.

Regardless of Speaker Burke's desire that there be no night session, the odds were on the side of the meeting in the dark. J. Howard of Omaha, commonly known as Jerry, was one busy body. He wanted to find some one who would introduce for him a bill providing thousand dollar a year salaries for each of the twelve members of the Omaha school board. He even brought down an argument, prepared by him, to be used by the introducer. In this argument, Mr. Howard sets forth that the scriptures hold the laborer to be worthy of his hire. The former legislator also argues that the board of education members are about the only people in Omaha who work for nothing.

In spite of the big commotion connected with this last day landslide of bills introduced, hCairman Essam of the house finance committee, calmly remarked that his committee probably would get down to business on the governor's budget and appropriations during the day. He assigned members of his committee to the penitentiary Monday morning.

"We have now visited the penitentiary, the Lincoln state hospital and institutions at York, Milford and Norfolk," said the finance chairman. "One of our members has visited Kearney and one has been to Omaha. This leaves Grand Island, Hastings and Beatrice yet to be visited. I shall send members of the committee to inspect institutions at those cities during the week."

MERE MENTION.

A small fire at the home of Conrad Glantz, 1629 North Twenty-seventh, Monday noon, thought to have started from an overheated stove-pipe, was easily extinguished by firemen. Damage was slight.

Sand shippers and railroad representatives were inc onference Monday with members of the state railway commission over the basis charges for sand and gravel shipped from where there are no track scales to weigh the cars. The commisison issued an order with reference to weights some time ago, but it has held this order up until some differences can be ironed out.

Argument was heard before the supreme court Monday morning in an appeal from Lancaster county in the divorce case of Mary M. Conn against Reubon Conn. The appeal involved the question of whether the lattre should pay additional alimony. He did pay $5,000 at one time, and says he has provided her with a comfortable house to live in. She says he owns 318 acres of land and that she has not sufficient to support her.

Drainage District No. 1 of Richardson county filed an appeal Monday with the supremec ourt in a case in which present owners of lands formerly owned by Indians on the reservation in that county won relief from paying any further assessments. When the project was first begun congress appropriated a sum sufficient to pay an assessment of $7 an acre on all this Indian land, and limited to that sum all further assessments against it. The district made other improvements later, and sought to levy additional assessments. The court below held that congress had a right to limit the assessments, and that that limit bars any further recovery.

If Food Causes Stomach Trouble

If Bloating, Gassiness, Heartburn, Sour Stomach or Such Distresses Follow Meals be Sure to Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A good appetite for the savory dishes, come what may, or as they say, "from soup to nuts," is one of life's chief enjoyments. Then, on the other hand, stomach distress afterward is one of life's chief disappointments. To enjoy eating and feel perfectly safe one should follow meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They aid digestion, they stop sour fermentation, they take up the sour risings and gassiness, they sweeten the stomach by giving it the alkaline effect and they also stimulate secretions in the stomach and intestines.

Thus, whether you eat pork and beans, sausage and buckwheat cakes, mince pie and cheese, or the foods that most people complain of making the stomach uneasy and sour, you experience that happy state of enjoyable, solid comfort.

HUSKERS DROP BACK IN THE VALLEY RACE

Kansas Defeat of Nebraska Puts Them at the Top—Washington and Huskers Have the Same Percentage.

February 2—Kansas Aggies vs Drake, Des Moines.
February 2—Kansas vs. Oklahoma, Lawrence.
February 2—Missouri vs. Washington, Columbia.
February 3—Ames vs. Kansas, Ames.
February 6—Ames vs. Washington, St. Louis.
February 6—Kansas Aggies vs. Oklahoma, at Manhattan.
February 7—Nebraska vs. Oklahoma, at Lincoln.

With the defeat of Nebraska university cagers Saturday night by Kansas U. basketball team, Kansas now leads in the valley conference race, which they won last year and the year before, leaving the Huskers and Washington, who were at the top, in second place. Washington went down with Nebraska when the Sooners, who meet next Saturday, nosed out the Pikers in a 26 to 25 game.

It is the opinion expressed by a number of basketball fans that Kansas won the game Saturday night by playing just a little bit "smarter" game than the Husker quintet. Peterson was nearly always on hand to catch a ball on the rebound when it struck the board in a shot for basket and to snare long passes from the Kansas players and convert them into counts. They used some good strategy when they played the ball in the back court and brought the Husker defense in giving the visitors a chance to score.

Oklahoma cagers are fourth from the bottom in the valley sonference standings, but have been making a better showing recently than when the season opened. They have lost three games and won three. Drake beat Ames in the Saturday battle 23 to 22. The Des Moines school has been having an uphill road, having lost six games and won two. Ames has not won a game out of a half dozen.

Missouri meets Washington and from the dope, the Washington cagers should win the game. Missouri also meets Ames and should have no trouble in disposing of the Iowa tetm. Kansas meets Oklahoma and should win from the Sooners unless the Sooners play a much faster game than they have played most of the season. The Kansas Aggies. who defeated Kansas should have little trouble with Iowa state at Ames.

With Peru Normal, Nebraska Wesleyan, and Midland college tied for the Nebraska conference cage leadership, followers of the state college goal flippers are predicting a great battle for final honors.

Will the Bobcats repeat? That is the question most on the minds of Nebraska basketball enthusiasts. Lon Graf's Peru outfit took things easy last week preparing for their arguments with Doane and Cotner on February 4 and 5. Peru has five veterans but keen competition is expected from Midland, Wesleyan, and Wayne for the title.

Coach Fred Dale's Wayne Normal tossers leaped into the limelight by snaring a pair of close tilts from Cotner and Hastings. The Wildcat tribe jumped from tenth place to fourth position in the standings as a result of their spurt. Cotner lost a tough 22 to 19 skirmish and Coach Holste's Bronchos were forced to accept the short end of a 17 to 16 count in a thriller.

Wesleyan In Running.

Nebraska Wesleyan kept in the running by handing Doane college a 24 to 21 defeat Saturday night. The Coyotes lost to Des Moines university in a non-conference tussle 27 to 22.

Coach Jones' Grand Island five, after a disappointing start, came to the front with victories over Kearney and York college. The basket shooting of Rehder and [illegible] featured the Zebra flash.

Midland had a hard time defeating Hastings college 29 to 26 in a [illegible] battle. The Lutherans took an early lead but the Bronchos put on a last minute spurt and nearly turned defeat into victory.

The Broncho aggregation probably has had more tough luck than any other quint in the conference. Holste's men have played good basketball but have repeatedly received the short end of the count by one or two points.

[illegible] Russell's York goal sharks broke even in the week's play by trimming Kearney 20 to 13 but lost a 24 to 14 tussle with Grand Island. [illegible] university was idle while [illegible] Normal has yet to play [illegible] conference game.

CHAPTER XXIX.

A Record For Double Plays.

I went thru the season of 1921 without missing a game. I repeated the performance the next year. My arm seemed better than ever. I got the feel of playing second base in these two campaigns. I developed some ability in figuring out what the opposition was going to do. I studied batters. I learned, to an extent, the sort of balls they hit best and what kind they were weak on. I talked the hitters over with Griffith, Johnson, and other veterans. I was laying the ground for the future.

Peckinpaugh joined Washington before the opening of the 1922 season. I found myself working with one of the best shortstops in the history of the game. With Judge, we set a record for double plays. We turned in 168. I figured in 114 of them. I don't think there ever has been Peck's equal at starting a double play. I had perfected the pivot, thanks to my work with Jimmy O'Neill when his arm was sore. Judge, a truly great first baseman, invariably came up with the ball if I was a bit wild. The next year we turned in 182 double plays. I was in 120 of them.

I know my study of batters helped me in being in the right place often in making double plays. But it wasn't an easy matter to figure players like Cobb, Speaker, Heilmann, Ruth, Sisler, Collins, Jamieson, Tobin and Williams. They were a terror to any pitchers.

They were all natural batters. They were smart, too. They seemed to know as much about the league twirlers as the latter did about them. Judge, Rice and Goslin of the Washington club belonged in the same class.

I wasn't in the league when Cobb was at his best as a base runner. But I found him always dangerous, once he reached first. If his legs had slowed up a bit, his headwork hadn't. He was the best slider in the league. I've never found a man harder to tag. I might not have looked as good at second if I'd been there when the Georgian was in his prime as a base-runner.

Cobb developed himself by hard work and using his brains. Men who knew him when he was breaking in said he worked twice as hard as any of the other Detroit players. He never loafed. His energy was amazing. He was the finished product long before I entered the league. He had perfected himself in every detail. If you gave him half a chance he was sure to outguess you. He was generally just a jump ahead of the other fellow in using his head. He backed his natural speed with intelligent effort. Cobb was a self made success if there ever was one. In my judgment he was the greatest of them all.

George McBride, who managed the Washington club in 1921 and had to retire because of an injury, told me to study Cobb. "You're just breaking in, Bucky," he said. "Watch how Ty runs the bases. I don't suppose anyone will ever equal him when he was at his best, but if you can learn some of his tricks you'll be a better ball player. He has a variety of slides. Try to get them down pat. He'll show you what fighting spirit and brains can do when added to natural ability. He's the greatest model in the game for a young player. Pick out the best when you want to follow some one."

McBride knew what he was talking about. He was a great shortstop when Cobb was a terror on the base paths. In 1920, my first year as a regular. Cobb stole only fourteen bases. This was his lowest mark, barring his opening season with Detroit, up to that time. I guess I underrated him a bit until he fooled me several time. Then I studied out a way to stop him. I figured that for all his wonderful sliding to get away from an infielder he had to come back to the base with his fingers or toes. I decided that if I went after him I was lost. I made up my mind I'd let him come to me. I would wait at the bag for him to come in and then tag him. Thereafter he didn't steal often on me. I don't know whether or not the system would have worked when Cobb was in his prime.

Cobb, as a playing manager, always kept his men on their toes. He inspired them by his own deeds. He would never say quit. There was an example of this in 1922. Washington was playing Detroit. We had a big lead going into the ninth. Ty kept a club, apparently badly beaten, fighting all the way. Under his driving the Tigers bobbed up in the ninth with nine runs and won by 11 to 9. He got five hits in six times at bat himself. He worked on the theory that a game is never lost until the last man is out. It's the right one in baseball or any other game.

George Sisler wrested Cobb's batting honors from him in 1922. He set many hitting marks for the season and led the base stealers. He scored four runs in a game with Washington by clearing the bases with a homer. But for trouble with his eyes he, no doubt, would have continued his record-breaking performances. He was one of the most dangerous men at bat against whom I ever have played.

The Browns have always been a hard club for Washington to beat. They almost knocked us out of a pennant by winning five straight on our mid-season trip last year. It seemed, when I first came up with Washington, as if we couldn't beat them in a close game. They were particularly troublesome in 1922. They seemed to run to extra base hits against Washington pitchers.

Johnny Tobin duplicated Sisler's feat of knocking a homer with the bases full against Washington later in the 1922 season. He hit two home runs in this particular game. The following day Ken Williams smashed out two circuit clouts against us in the same inning. The feat had been performed only three times before. The Browns certainly had something on us. Walter Johnson always had more trouble beating them than any club in the league.

Something in the mental attitude of players gives certain clubs and pitchers an edge over others. The only club to which Washington lost more games than it won in 1924 was St. Louis. We broke the jinx, for all time I hope, when we beat the Browns two games of three in our last series of the season. Red Oldham, of Detroit, was a pitcher who seemed to have the Indian sign on Washington. He beat us in eight games in 1922, seven of which were in a row. He was ineffective against every other club in the league.

Washington was a big disappointment in 1922. The good hitters didn't come thru. Goose Goslin, batting hero of the 1924 world's series, was the only hitter in the .300 class. It was his first full year in the majors. He showed then the promise, later fulfilled, of becoming a real slugger. The pitchers also failed. My batting average, which had slumped from .300 in 1920 to .289 the following year, dropped an even twenty points more in 1922. But my fielding had improved greatly in the two years. And best of all my arm stood up in great shape after the scare of 1920.

DRUMMOND'S FIVE LOOK LIKE GOODS

Omaha Tech's Decisive Win Over Lincoln Boosts Maroon Stock —Crete High Is Still Undefeated.

A powerful Maroon tornado swept down upon the Capital City last Friday night and when the storm was over an Omaha Tech basketball team had dribbled, passed and shot their way to a 29 to 15 win over Coach Browne's Lincoln high tossers. The victory established one fact; Coach Drummond's proteges will be a serious if not the favorite contender for state championship honors.

Lincoln high came back the following evening to annex a narrow 13 to 10 victory over Omaha Central. The Purple five, handicapped by the ineligibility of their two regular forwards Marrow and Robertson, put up a stubborn fight but were unable to assume the lead after the first period.

Crete kept its slate clean by nosing out Johnston's Beatrice tribe, 19 to 15, in a furious battle. The Saline county goal sharks, with the lanky Kersenbrock in the leading role, have yet to lose a game.

Ravenna Bumps York.

Coach Howard Schroeder's Ravenna cagers jumped to the front with a 19 to 16 win over York high while Havelock humbled Waverly high 31 to 9.

Geneva came thru with a trio of wins, defeating Clay Center 15 to 5, Sutton 18 to 8 and Superior 19 to 9. Clarkson's flippers added a pair of scalps to their collection by dumping the Genoa Indians and Schuyler quints by the wayside.

Fremont took a brace and handed Columbus a neat 25 to 6 trimming and then proceeded to throw Beatrice for a 26 to 17 loss. The Orangemen also lost a tough game to Crete in a bath night engagement.

Western Teams Active.

Western Nebraska quints had a busy week, Gothenburg led the field by taking a pair of games, one a 21 to 15 win over North Platte and the other a 14 to 2 victory over Overton high.

Cambridge nosed out Indianola 22 to 16, Kearney walloped Grand Island 11 to 8, Bayard defeated Gering 15 to 10, and Valentine annexed a 24 to 4 win over Ainsworth. Broken Bow had an easy time with Sargent, winning, 23 to 7 while Aurora took the long end of a score from Seward 22 to 9.

Stella gave Falls City the small end of a 21 to 7 count and Marquette shaved Polk with a 10 to 8 razor. Yutan lost it's first game of the season to Weston, 18 to 17.

Bluejays on Short End.

Tech gave Creighton Prep a neat trimming early in the week but Omaha Central had to be content with a 26 to 19 win over North high. South Omaha came out ahead in an out-state game with Council Bluffs high. The final score was 19 to 4.

DeWitt high's goal shooting aggregation looked pretty good against Milford. The former quint won 33 to 19. DeWitt also nosed out Exeter high 14 to 13. Games this week:

GREATEST RUNNER TELLS HIS STORY

Paavo Nurmi, Phantom Finn, Relates How He Developed Into Marvel of Speed and Endurance.

(Paavo Nurmi's story as told by him to Charles E. Parker.)

(Copyright, 1925, in United States, Canada and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. Copyright (New York World) Press Publishing Company. All rights reserved.)

This is the second of a series of articles on the remarkable athletic career of Paavo Nurmi, the marvel of Finland. At ten years of age he ran 1,500 metres in 5 minutes and 2 seconds and now is breaking world's records about every time he faces the starter. Generally recognized as the greatest runner of all time, the story of his athletic life reads like a romance.

CHAPTER II.

The Lad Who Ran With a Watch.

Paavo Nurmi, the ten-year-old grammar school youngster who covered the 1,500 meter course on the Abo Urheiluliitto track in five minutes and two seconds, became the talk of that Baltic coast town when his exploit was learned.

Serious contenders for places in the Finnish Olympic team of 1908 had barely shaded Paavo's time for the distance while many who considered themselves real Olympic possibilities could not match the figures.

All Abo knew the Nurmis. Paavo's father, a cabinet maker, was one of the substantial citizens of the town, and besides Paavo there were three other children in the family — two girls, one older and the other younger than Paavo, and little Martti, the baby of the lot.

Aboians, however, were at a loss to learn where the older boy gained his fleetness of foot. The father, possibly because of lack of opportunity or incentive, never had disclosed interest or skill in any line of sport, nor could athletic excellence be traced further back in the Nurmi line. As fishermen and farmers the Nurmis were a sturdy race but strength of arm rather than speed of limb had been their outstanding physical quality.

Some attributed Paavo's feat as a ten-year-old to strict adherence to a vegetable diet, for the Nurmi family were vegetarians and it was not until his eighteenth birthday that Paavo learned the taste and developed his liking for meats.

He Makes Up His Mind.

Paavo himself was too young to attempt to account for it. The amazement he had seen on the faces of the timers as he finished his first assault upon a foot-racing record told him he had accomplished a remarkable thing. He made up his mind then and there to become the greatest runner in the world.

Paavo received little outside encouragement during the next six years. Officials of the Abo Urheiluliitto advised him against attempting to follow the strenuous training and competing stunts of the senior athletes until he had attained full strength and growth. They would not consider his petitions to enter the weekly meets. Boys of Paavo's size and age had realized the futility of attempting to match strides with their fellow and Paavo, who loved to run and believed he had an athletic mission to fulfill, was forced to content himself with daily scampers along the Abo thorofares or over the fields and hills.

It was in those early years that he developed the custom of carrying a watch—a cheap little timepiece in those days—while he ran. Paavo's opponent was the minute hand and there was the real thrill of victory when he reached a given point a fraction earlier than the time he had set for the mark.

In the meantime two Olympic was the 1908 meet in London, meets had come and gone. There which caught the Finns not quite fully prepared for strenuous international competition and turned away without a single first place trophy. Then had followed the 1912 games at Stockholm, in which Paavo's countrymen, led by Kolehmainen, Saaristo and Tiapale, scored first places in six of the events, second and third place in others, and definitely brought their little nation—Finland has less population than the city of New York—to the position of serious contender for Olympic top honors.

That latter accomplishment stirred anew Paavo's ambition. But in these years he was not allowed to neglect an occupation which would serve him when his athletic days were done. He continued in the Abo grammar school until he was graduated at the age of fifteen and then served as sort of an apprentice with an engineering concern until he was eighteen.

Paavo Wins a Scholarship.

That, it seems, is a custom in Finland. The boy upon completing his elementary school course decides, or is told by his parents, what trade or business to learn, and serves three years as an apprentice. Then his school and working records are submitted to a government official, and the boy who shows the best record is sent to a college which specializes in the work he has followed.

Paavo picked draftsmanship, was awarded a three-year scholarship in the Abo Technical Institute, and was graduated a full fledged mechanical draftsman and engineer at twenty-one.

It was the year before he entered the institute that Paavo engaged in his first championship race — the 3,000-meter run in the Finnish junior national championships at Helsingfors in 1914.

Earlier in that year the Abo Athletic Association—the Urheiluliitto—had admitted him to mebership. Its officials believed he had attained the development necessary to make his start in open competition, and Paavo celebrated that event regularly each week by winning one or more Sunday races on the new much improved track in his native town.

They were real victories, not Finland's athletic officials disagree with A. A. U. authorities as to the effectiveness of handicap events in developing runners. Every man must start from scratch in Finnish races and if a chap fails to score a place it is his job to improve himself until he is able to do so.

Gibbons Is to Leave Light Heavyweights

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, will notify the New York boxing commission today that he is withdrawing his challenge of Gene Tunney and leaving the light heavyweight class.

"I can't make the weight any more and I want to fight as a heavyweight," Gibbons said. "I am also going to tell the commissioners that I am prepared to meet any heavyweight who wants to claim the championship when Jack Dempsey retires."

Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, is to meet Tex Rickard today when dates may be discussed for a return bout between Dempsey and Gibbons. Articles were signed more than a year ago by Gibbons and it is understood that Rickard has reached an agreement with Dempsey.

RELAYS TO HAVE AGGIES ATTENTION

Manhattan Farmers to Put Most of Time in Training for These Events at Kansas City.

MANHATTAN, Kas., Feb. 2.—Most of the attention of the Kansas Aggie track team in the Kansas City Athletic club invitation meet February 7 will be centered on the relays between teams from K. S. A. C. and Notre Dame, and K. S. A. C. and Oklahoma. The feature relay of the evening will be a two mile affair between the Aggies and Notre Dame, while the Aggie one mile relay team will run against Oklahoma.

Practically all the cream of the track squad is entered in the two relays, and will not compete in the individual events at all. Final tryouts for positions on the team were held Saturday afternoon on Stadium field. Four of the six members of the valley championship cross country team will run in the two mile relay. Kimport, winner of the thousand yard race at the K. C. A. C. meet last year, will run only in the relay this year, along with Von Riesin, Axtell and Coleman.

The Aggies have a speedy quartet of quarter milers in Captain Knouse, Brockway, Russell, and Shaw or Davis.

Four men, considered too slow for the half as members of the relay team, have been entered in the mile. All are better over the two mile route, but at that may force the rest of the entrants to unusual performance to win. Aggie entrants in the mile are Balzer, a letter man, Butterfield, and Sallee and Rutherford, two cross country letter men. McGrath and Fleck, two freshmen stars, have been entered unattached in the half mile and 1,000 yard run. Fleck won the open mile in the Valley Interscholastic here last year, and McGrath is a former Kansas university man. The three K. S. A. C. weight men entered have been showing up about the same, all doing better than 40 feet consistently. The entrants are Lyle Munn, football captain; J. E. Smith, sophomore, and F. A. Brunkau, letter man.

C. P. Foote, a sophomore, won the 30 yard dash in the recent all-Aggie track meet in 3 4-5 seconds, and has been entered in the fifty at Kansas City.

Paul Gartner, a freshman, is the best Aggie prospect in both high and low hurdles, and has been entered in the 50 yard highs and lows unattached. Loren Davis, a sophomore, also has been entered in the low hurdles, and N. L. Roberts, senior letter man, in the high hurdles.

Omaha Livestock.

OMAHA, Feb. 2.—Cattle receipts 8000. To all intents and purposes the trade in fat cattle Monday was very little different from last week's very unsatisfactory close. Local packers were indifferent buyers and there was very little shipper competition so that the movement was sluggish thruout. Sales of fat cattle above the $9.00 mark were comparatively scarce owing to the plain quality of the bulk of the receipts. Stockers and feeders were in liberal supply but demand continues good and prices ruled fully steady all around.

Sales of beef steers:

No.	Av.	Price	No.	Av.	Price
13	744	$8.00	7	1062	$8.25
11	860	7.00	1	825	6.00
34	1025	7.60	14	850	6.50
29	919	4.75

Hogs—receipts 20,000. With around 18,000 head on sale 2,000 being directs, and rather sharp losses reported elsewhere local prices weakened all around. Movement to shippers was on a 15@25c lower basis while packr trade was dull at uneven declines.

Sale of hogs:

No.	Av.	Price	No.	Av.	Price

Sheep—receipts 19,000. Liberal supplies of fat lambs forced prices off 25c to in extreme cases 50c this morning, medium grades showing the most losses. Good inquiry was apparent for feeders and these classes showed little change with aged sheep strong.

Cattle—recipts 7,500; market slow; yearlings $6.50@10.50; steers $5.50@10.25 cows and heifers $2.50@8.25; stockers and feeders $4.50@8.40; calves $4.00@11.00; bulls and stags $3.75@5.75.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Wall street began the new week with the majority of its stock market observers optimistic on the immediate course of prices. Bank clearings and other reliable trade show general trade is running ahead of normal. So long as business trend continues upward, the demand for stocks will hold up proportionately. This factor is expected to prevent anything more important than technical setbacks from interfering with the forward movement on the stock exchange.

Buying orders accumulated in gratifying volume over the week end and early trading witnessed brisk activities on the upside in representative stocks. The oils were still in urgent demand.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle.

GRAND JURY IS MEETING

TO HEAR WITNESSES IN STONE'S PROSECUTION.

Fifty-eight Subpoenaed by Attorney General to Testify in Case of Senator Wheeler, Montana.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Attorney General Stone won over his senate critics today when the judiciary committee again approved his nomination to the supreme court bench.

While a grand jury a few blocks away met to hear evidence in the case against Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana member of the senate committee, some of who had criticised Stone's activities against Wheeler and threatened to hold up his nomination—ordered it favorably reported to the senate.

The nomination must be finally approved by a majority of the whole senate before Stone can take his seat on the supreme bench.

The committee action was taken by a vive voce and no negatives were recorded. Democrats refused to vote either for or against the report. They reserve the right to oppose confirmation of the nomination in the senate.

The republican majority in the senate however, is believed strong enough to force the nomination thru and the action taken today practically assures final approval on the appointment, even the a fight still is made agianst it.

The committee did not take up the nomination of Charles B. Warren of Michigan to replace Stone as attorney general. A meeting to consider the Warren nomination will be held later in the week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A federal grand jury meets in the District of Columbia court house here today to hear fifty-eight witnesses subpoenaed by Attorney General Stone in the government's case against Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana democrat.

A few blocks east, in the chamber o fthe senate, judiciary committee, reconsideration was given the nomination of Stone to be a member of the supreme court bench.

Commencement of the legal proceedings was expected to bring to a showdown from those opposing confirmation of Stone's nomination and possible final action today by the judiciary committee.

Among the fifty-eight witnesses, twenty-seven are from Montana, and sixteen from Washington. Stone says they will testify in connection with a charge against Wheeler and others of conspiracy to defraud the government. At least a week will be required for the grand jury to complete its hearings.

The two movements in these two leading oriental countries are taken as indicative of the rapid progress being made there by the same leading tendeucies as in the occident.

AROUND WORLD WITH SUN.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The supreme aviation feat of the future is to fly around the world with the sun, in the opinion of M. Rodolphe Soreau, vice president of the Aero club of France, and he speculated on this possibility in all seriousness. He said this achievement was not a dream of Utopia but quite within the vision of science. M. Soreau is an engineer by profession. He has a keen scientific mind and a religious belief in aviation. He is one of the foremost promoters of flying in France. In discussing the question of speed in relation to the record recently established by Adjutant Bonnet, he expressed the conviction that man would one day be able to race the earth in its movement and hold his own.

Paving district 519, Que street, Thirtieth to the east line of Tuttle's subdivision, $5,741.6[illegible].

Consideration of four street widening projects is expected to be deferred for at least a short time, when the ordinances which would create the new paving districts required for the wineding come up for third reading before the council this afternoon. Delay in final action on the ordinances is occasioned by protests filed on two of the projects.

The four projects are: Widening of Randolph street seven feet on each side of the present sixteen-foot pavement between Thirty-seventh and Forty-fourth street; widening of Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets each fifteen feet on each side of the present forty-foot roadway between O and P streets.

Twenty-nine owners of property on Randolph street between Thirty-seventh and Forty-fourth presented a protest against the widening of that section of the street and five owners of property along Seventeenth between O and P presented a protest against that project. Final action is therefore expected to be delayed until the proposals are discussed more fully.

MYSTERY IN THE GRIFFIN SHOOTING

Convicted Slayer of McArdle Probably Fatally Wounded by Detective Sergeant Potach of Omaha.

OMAHA, Feb. 2.—Mystery today surrounding the reasons for the probable fatal wounding of Jimmy Griffin, convicted slayer of "Hank" McArdle, by Detective Sergeant Joe Potach last night.

No written reports of the affair had been made by Potach this morning, and the officer could not be located by newspaper men. Doctors said Griffin had little chance for recovery.

Griffin was out on an appeal bond after having been sentenced to one to ten years for the McArdle killing. McArdle's body was found burned to a crisp in a blazing hay stack near Papillion a year ago. Jayce Banker and William Welter of Nebraska City were also convicted with Griffin.

Chief of Detectives Ben Danbaum, who arrived on the scene of the shooting of Griffin shortly after it occurred, said Potach and Detective Edward Vanous had followed Griffin and Tom Kelly for several blocks, wanting to question them.

Griffin and Kelly finally stopped their automobile and waited on the sidewalk for the officers, Danbaum said Potach told him.

"Now I've got you," Griffin is alleged to have shouted to Potach, at the same time reaching for his hip pocket.

Potach drew his revolver and fired.

Kelly recently served two years in a Canadian penitentiary for holding up a liquor warehouse across the line. Both he and Griffin are bootleggers and rum runners.

DECREASE IN LIVESTOCK

Shows Dcline of 9.8 Per Cent During 1924. But Value in State Is the Same.

Livestock on Nebraska farms decreased 9.8 per cent during 1924 but the total value remained the same, A. E. Anderson, federal crop and livestock statistician stated today in his annual livestock report.

"There are 9,545,000 head against 10,584,000 head a year ago," he reported. "The total value is nearly the same being $232,507,000 against $234,433,000 last year." Horses, cattle other than milk cows, and swine declined in number. Mules, milk cows and sheep increased.

"Swine show the heaviest decline from the record number of 5,543,000 head a year ago to 4,545,000 head at present or 18 per cent less. The total value is $59,024,000 against $[illegible] a year ago."

"Sheep increased 10 per cent. The total number is 725,000 head against 660,000 head a year ago. This is the second highest number on record. Nearly all of these are feeder lambs and sheep. Total value is $7,650,000 against $5,214,000 last year.

ABOUT BUILDING HOMES
Many answered the advertisement last week about building and financing a home on your clear lot. If you did not read the ad last week look up an old paper.

I prefer to hold this proposition to at least a 5 room bungalow. I will build any house plan, however, suitable to the lot, including a six, seven, eight or nine room house.

There will be a first loan, which will be paid monthly, and a second which will run three years.

I have for sale and already built 2135 Sewell St., at $8750; 2040 Park at $8750; 2644 Ryons at $9200, and under construction, 2622 South 16th at $5000 and 2419 So. 24th at $12,500.

Men and Things

What is the use in having rules if they can be proved by the exceptions only? The answer naturally is, none at all. The inference is that rules prove themselves by the way they operate and not by the way they do not operate, which is the exception. Here is one piece of ancient wisdom handed down to us that does not seem to stand the test of logic. One of the old sayings is that if one wants to eat much he should eat little, meaning that if he eats only a small quantity at one time he will live a lot longer and, therefore, be able to eat more in the long run. Yet we read the other day where the superintendent of a home for the aged said that most of the inmates ate very heartily and had done so most of their lives, when they had it.

A magazine printed the pictures of former reds who raised the devil in New York and Chicago in past years, and spent their time in jail when they were not ranting on the soapboxes. There were men and women both in the list. Every one of them was a familiar figure in the news of ten and twenty years ago, when they were young. Now that they have become older they are living quiet and peaceful lives, working for a living and some of them rearing families. Age is what has sobered them, as it does most persons. If you are young and inclined to reform the world all at once, remember that ten years hence you will know a lot more and act a lot better.

The only explanation of the fact that so many persons think they have a mission or commission to cure the world of its ills is that they are afflicted with egomania or whatever its scientific equivalent is. The world is a good many thousand years old; it has been peopled in its time by a vast number of persons most of them possessed of rudimentary or better mental equipment. Why was it reserved for you and you alone, thru all the centuries, to be the custodian of this new idea you think you have? The chances are you will find, if you search deeply that it isn't a new idea. One of our painful experiences has been to find that what we thought were new ones of our own turn up in some book somewhere. Sometimes we feel like keeping away from the books and preserving our beliefs.

If we were as rich as John D. we would see to it that none of our pictures appear in the newspapers; that is if we looked like John D. We have no doubt that he is the fine old man that his philanthropies and benevolences, but his eighty-eight years have left their marks on his face. In this he is no different from a great many other people of his age; in other words, it is the fault of nature and not of the individual that so many of these very, very old folks, looking into the camer, seem somehow or into the camera, seem somehow or feller doesn't look as tho he liked it, either.

The comment of Mr. LaFollette upon the gifts of Eastman and Duke to the cause of education recently are characteristic of the man. He sees in this only a sinister effort to control the education of the young in the interest of predatory wealth, an impossible task in the first place and one that is not attempted, in the second place. What would Mr. LaFollette have taught in these universities upon whom these millionaires have showered their money? Would he have them taught the false doctrines and the class hatred that he preaches? Would he distort their minds as he has the minds of those who follow his political fortunes? We have long urged that he take something for whatever it is that ails him, but he doesn't do it. Yet it is good advice.

In Confidence.

Boston Transcript: "I knew," he declared, "that we were meant for each other the first moment I saw you."

"I knew it long before that," she replied.

"You did?"

"Yes. I may tell you now in confidence, since we're engaged, that

DAILY LESSONS IN ENGLISH.

By W. L. Gordon

Words often misused: ability and capacity. Ability is the state of being able to do, capacity to receive. One has ability to work, capacity to learn.

Often mispronounced: occult. Accent the last syllable, and not the oc.

Often misspelled: disappearance. One s, two p's.

Synonyms: copy, likeness, imitation, fac-simile, counterpart, model, duplicate, transcript, reprint, reproduction.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: visualize; to construct an image of in the mind. "That which we visualize we attract to us."

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

6 Minutes to Answer This.

A donkey and a goat met on a one-way bridge.

"You will have to back up," said the goat.

"Not I," replied the donkey, "I have been twice as long in crossing as you have."

"But," continued the goat, "I am twice as far on my way over as you are."

Now, if each animal can back off half as fast as he goes forward, will it save time for the goat to back off and let the donkey go forward to shore and then cross himself, or will it take less time for the donkey to back up and let the goat land first?

Which method will land both animals on the shores they wish to reach in the shortest space of time?

HAVE PLACE FOR BOOKS ALL THROUGH THE HOME

Even the Hall Sometimes May Have Its Bookcase.

By MARIAN MOORE

When the time comes that your living room contains all the books that it can hold, or if perchance your living room is so small that there is no space for a bookcase, you need seldom hesitate placing a bookcase in a narrow hall, such as was done in this case. Indeed the colorful bindings of rows of Encyclopedias Britannica, volumes of Emerson and some of the favorite poets are a dignified indication of what sort of intelligence may be found beyond the entrance hallway of your home. The more colorful and varied the bindings the more attractive the aspect of the bookcase becomes. For your further advantage, if you use sectional bookcases you can start with merely one section, adding as you see fit, always assured that year after year you can obtain a section or unit to match the old ones. And I hope that every one of my readers realizes the desirability of this scheme, for a home without books is like bread without butter.

Don't you think that this hall setting is a most agreeable sight to gaze upon? The bookcase is in mahogany with soft dull rubbed finish and decorated with fine lines of gold. Its top admits of a formal arrangement of accessories such as you often see on console tables, and over it may be hung a picture of an outdoor scene which lends an air of spaciousness, but don't make the mistake of having the picture too large, or it will, as it does here, appear somewhat top-heavy. Then aided by a pair of wall sconces and chairs simple in design the hall becomes an artistic room.
